New 'Stop Hoffa' Appeal Made to Chief Justice

PUBLIC SCHOOLS SUSPENDED HERE

13 Attempt to Halt Teamsters Vote Thursday

WASHINGTON (UP) — Thirteen persistent Teamsters made a new "stop Hoffa" appeal today to Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Attorneys for the New York rank-and-file group submitted additional arguments in their contention the federal courts should intervene and block the expected election of James R. Hoffa as president of the union at its convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

Warren already was studying their basic appeal filed Monday.

The election was expected to be held Thursday.

"The public interest demands that judicial inquiries shall extend to methods by which union dictators, including admitted embezzlers, acquire power to victimize rank-and-file members," the new brief said.

The Court of Appeals has twice refused to block the election. But it held the union accountable for conducting the balloting legally, with only properly selected delegates permitted to vote.

The rank-and-file group told Warren today that this was not enough.

'Not Consistent'

"It is not, consistent with the public welfare that the Teamster members, aggrieved by serious violation of the IBT (union) constitution, should be told that they must endure the indignity and affront of a bogus convention and unconstitutional delegates, on the empty promises that those perpetrating such offenses eventually may be exposed and deposed," the appeal said.

The rank-and-file 13 said Hoffa's victory to succeed Dave Beck was assured, even though the Midwest boss of the giant union is opposed in the election.

They told Warren that allowing the election to take place "permits the entrenchment in power of those who have imposed a dictatorship control upon the international organization, its subordinate bodies and members."

Their move in the Supreme Court Monday sought reinstatement of an order issued by Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts, which would have barred the election.

A three-judge appeals court set aside the Letts order. But it warned that the delegates must be seated pursuant to the Team-

B. V. Businessman Suffers Fatal Attack in Italy

A North Belle Vernon man, who owned more than a half block of property in the heart of the borough's business section, is dead.

Baptist Briatico, 72, was stricken Sept. 23 while visiting in Italy, it was learned today.

The businessman suffered a cerebral thrombosis and died within a minute while sitting at the table in the home of a friend in Cortole, Province of Catanzaro, Calabria.

Briatico had left for Italy on June 29 for a visit. He planned to return this month to his residence at 521 Broad Ave.

News of his death was received in a letter written by an Italian friend Notaro Antonio.

Briatico owned two large buildings on Broad Ave., covering more than a half block. Several of North Belle Vernon's largest business houses are located in the buildings.

Born on May 2, 1885, in Italy, Briatico came to this country 58 years ago. He had been in business in Belle Vernon until Sept. 15, 1950, when he retired from the operation of the New Deal Restaurant on Broad Ave.

This visit to Italy was his second since coming to America, the other having been made in 1925.

He was a veteran of World War I, Belle Vernon American Legion Post 659, and the Italian Beneficial Society.

His closest survivors are aunts and cousins, all living in Italy. He was buried in Italy.

Ike, Governors in Talks

Integration Solution Is Sought

WASHINGTON (UP) — Four moderate southern governors indicated today they will try to "sell" Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus on any compromise solution to the Little Rock integration troubles worked out in their momentous meeting with President Eisenhower.

The governors voiced strong hope the meeting will lead to early withdrawal of all troops from Little Rock. They indicated they are prepared to make "concrete proposals" for removing the troops under conditions that would prevent resumption of mob violence.

Some of the governors indicated further hope the extraordinary session will pave the way for a broader North - South understanding on school integration that will prevent any future "Little Rocks."

Breakfast Together

Three of the four governors attending the historic meeting—Leroy Collins of Florida, Luther Hodges of North Carolina and Frank Clement of Tennessee—arrived Monday night and conferred informally in Hodges' Mayflower Hotel suite.

The fourth — Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland — motored here from Annapolis this morning and joined the others at a private breakfast huddle, again in Hodges suite.

The governors presumably met to pool their ideas and try to agree on a joint approach for their afternoon meeting with the President. But they were tight-lipped, saying they did not expect to make any statement before the White House meeting.

Segregationist John Kasper and a group from his Seaboard White Citizens Council planned to throw a picket line in front of the White House in a protest against "police state rule in Arkansas by General Eisenhower" and an attempt by the four "scalawag governors. . . to sell out the white people generally and the South in particular."

There were originally five governors named to the committee by the conference of all southern governors. But the fifth, Gov. Mar-

National Guard Takes Over at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — The federalized National Guard today took over "complete charge" at the Central High School scene.

An Army spokesman told United Press the 101st Airborne troops "have been placed in the background" and the 153rd National Guardsmen would escort the nine Negro students to school.

During the past few days it had been the practice for the 101st to surrender its guard positions at the school at night to the federalized troops. Then, in the morning, the 101st would take over.

However, shortly before 9 a.m., e.d.t., when the daily swap had been taking place, the Army said "no change."

The use of guardsmen indicated the Army thought the situation had calmed down sufficiently to enable the new arrangements. Monday, for the first time, paratroopers had taken positions without bayonets.

Barricades Down

All barricades were down at the school today and early morning traffic moved freely.

There were approximately 20 National Guardsmen on duty on the sidewalks, but no troops in the streets.

Most of the men carried carbines.

The "going's on" among paratroopers Monday was the apparent signal that federalized National Guardsmen would handle the situation from here on.

However, the troopers were not expected to fly out of Little Rock for two or three more days. One thousand of them could be at Central within 30 minutes if the militia got into trouble.

The governors of North Carolina, Tennessee, Maryland and Florida meeting with President Eisenhower in Washington today were to talk to him about pulling the paratroopers out of Arkansas.

A "southern" U.S. district judge, Roy W. Harper of St. Louis, replaced Judge Ronald N. Davies of Fargo, N.D., in Little Rock.

Davies was the judge who twice

Man's Body Is Found 20 Days After Death

The body of a man believed to have been dead 20 days was discovered by neighbors in Monongahela yesterday.

Found dead was Wilhelm Riemenschneider, 75, of 822 Marne St.

Neighbors summoned police yesterday after noticing an accumulation of newspapers on the front porch of his six-room home and a mail box stuffed with mail.

His body was badly decomposed when found. A bachelor, he lived alone.

A resident of Monongahela since 1911, the dead man was a retired maintenance employe of Bell Telephone Co.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows and Monongahela Lodge, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Katherine Friday, Mansfield, Ohio, and a brother, Nicholas, of R. D. 3, Woodsfield, Ohio.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Campana Funeral Home, Monongahela. Burial will be in Monongahela cemetery.

Cost of Haircut Goes Up Today In Monessen

Starting today, a trip to the barber shop in Monessen will cost more for a haircut and shave for adults.

Last week Monessen Barber Local 883 announced that effective today adult haircuts will cost $1.75 and shaves, $1.25.

The union said the 25-cent boost is due to additional shop expenses as well as the higher living costs.

The price of children's haircuts will remain at $1.50. All youngsters 12 years and under will be considered as children.

The last price increase by the local union became effective Oct. 11, 1955.

Monessen barbers also announced a change in hours. Effective today, barber shops will open at 9 a.m. and close at 5:30 p.m. every working day, including those prior to holidays.

Barbers in Charleroi, Donora, Monongahela and Belle Vernon, have not yet increased prices.

Sculco Praises Labor Record Of Democrats

District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco, Democratic nominee for judge of Westmoreland County County Common Pleas Court, was main speaker at a County Democratic rally held last night in Claridge.

Sculco emphasized the labor record of the Democrats, stating that despite "terrific Republican opposition, the Democratic administrations in all levels of government, have succeeded in putting into law the most comprehensive and humane program for the benefit of the people."

He pointed out the party's record in establishing better workman's compensation and occupational disease laws, more adequate unemployment compensation legislation, advanced safety inspection laws, a strong rehabilitation program for handicapped workers, and a Fair Employment Practice Commission to give all persons an equal opportunity to work in the state.

The judge aspirant went on to criticize the present Eisenhower administration for what he termed inflationary government "at its worst," and cited the rising cost of living for the last 11 months as indicative of the GOP program for big business at the expense of the

Minor Collision

A minor collision occurred near 200 East Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, yesterday afternoon and involved cars operated by John Estel, of R. D. 3, Elizabeth, and Mervin Silver, Pittsburgh, city police reported today.

'Cold' Epidemic Blamed; 1,056 Students Absent

Classes at public schools in Monessen were suspended today for the remainder of the week as a result of a growing epidemic of head colds and sore throats.

At the same time, city officials announced that efforts will be made to cancel all activities involving youth gatherings.

Police Chief Michael Kuvinka said he has instructed his force to disperse all groups and to advise youngsters to stay off the streets.

Albert Marchione, city health officer, reported that several organizations have agreed to cancel dances scheduled for this week. Both the Wednesday and Friday dances conducted by Barry Kaye at the Italian Hall have been called off.

The Midget Football League also postponed tonight's games. Also called off indefinitely were tomorrow's Monessen-Donora Junior High football game and Friday's Monessen-Hempfield game.

Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of schools, asked parents to cooperate by "keeping their youngsters at home."

'No Cause for Alarm'

"There is no cause for alarm, but parents should see to it that their boys and girls avoid groups and that they get as much rest as possible," Dr. Pallone said.

The public schools were dismissed this morning after Dr. Pallone met with school principals, city health officials and the school health department.

A total of 1,056 students reported off ill today out of the city's public school enrollment of 3200. Twelve teachers were also bedfast.

Dr. Pallone said the current ailment has not yet been identified as the much-publicized "Asiatic flu."

Marchione today told school officials that tests of Monessen cases have been sent to Philadelphia for analysis. However he has received no report as yet.

Marchione advised school authorities to dismiss classes as a "precautionary" measure, but urged the public "not to become alarmed."

Dr. Pallone said that all school days missed will have to be made up.

All meetings relating to the Monessen school system have been postponed, including the conference of Business, Industrial Education Day participants scheduled for this morning. Also postponed is the adult driver course regis-

Smith McKee Jr.

Smith McKee Jr. Is Co-ordinator For County GOP

Westmoreland County Republican chairman Edwin A. Swink announced today that Smith McKee Jr., a county commissioner, has been appointed GOP general campaign co-ordinator for the upcoming general election.

McKee will assume his campaign duties at once, Swink said. He will be charged with "co-ordinating all Republican activities in the county, including the planning of rallies and speeches by candidates."

McKee will be assisted by the following legislative district campaign chairmen: C. C. Mason, first district; Robert Chegwidden, second district; and Edward F. Stefl, third district. Special promotion chairman will be John Jenks, who heads the county's Federation of Young Republicans.

The new campaign co-ordinator's home is in New Kensington, where he has been in the insurance business for the past 20 years. He was elected county commissioner in 1955 after having served a term as county treasurer. Previously, he was city controller in New Kensington for eight years.

Lynnwood Man Wins Contest

A Lynnwood man has won The Daily Independent's first football contest of the 1957 season by picking the winners in 11 of 12 weekend games.

Bill Murphy, of Washington Rd., Belle Vernon R. D. 3, missed only the Texas Christian-Ohio State game to win first place.

Actually two other contestants also guessed eleven winners, but they tied for second place under contest rules. The runners-up were Rudy Setaro, 467 Knox Ave., Monessen, and Frank Steck, R. D. 2, Perryopolis.

Murphy was judged the winner because he came closest to predicting the highest score by a winning team. He selected 38 points. The correct total was 42, run up by Army against Nebraska.

Home-town Pride

Steck and Setaro shared $6.25 each, which represented the combined second and third place money. They were both six points off of the correct total; Steck picking 36 and Setaro guessing 48.

Actually home-town pride probably kept Setaro from picking all 12 games correctly. He selected Monessen to beat Uniontown, contrary to the dopesters.

Two of the prize-winners picked the underdog Cleveland Browns to defeat the New York Giants in professional competition. All

Supreme Court Is Studying Arguments

The State Supreme Court today is still taking under advisement a legal dispute over who will be the Republican nominee in the November Monessen general election.

The legal point at issue is whether the Westmoreland County Elections Board should cumulate "voting machine" votes which are incorrectly spelled.

The court decision will decide if the GOP nominee for mayor is to be John R. Stieska or Hugo J. Parente. Parente won the Democratic nomination at the May 21 primary.

Attorneys for both Parente and Stieska presented oral arguments before the court in Pittsburgh yesterday. The justices gave no indication at that time as to when they would render their decision.

Charleroi Man Wins $2 Million Case Review

The state Supreme Court has ordered a lower court to review its decision which kept David M. McCloskey, Charleroi, from sharing in an estimated two-million-dollar natural gas jackpot.

The high court, sitting in Pittsburgh, yesterday overruled a Washington County Common Pleas ruling which, in effect, had prevented McCloskey from sharing in gas royalties.

The Supreme Court ordered the lower court to take another look at the dispute and give a decision "not inconsistent with this opinion."

McCloskey had gone to court to prove that he was a life member of the Charleroi Mountain Club, an organization which was dissolved in 1953.

The Mountain Club was organized in 1915. A short time later a tract of several hundred acres of land was purchased in Elk County.

In 1953, the land value suddenly boomed when natural gas was discovered. The club was dissolved and the 28 members - excluding McCloskey - each took a 1-28th share in the property.

The owners granted Keta Gas & Oil Co. exclusive mineral rights to develop the property in return for royalties estimated to be more than two-million-dollars.

McCloskey petitioned the court for a 1-29th share which amounted to an estimated $69,000. He claimed he had a membership card signed by the club president and co-signed by the secretary in 1916.

The Washington County court refused to accept certain evidence for technical reasons. McCloskey then sought a Supreme Court ruling.

He was represented in court by Palmer J. McCloskey, Charleroi, who argued the case last January before the justices.

McCloskey's attorneys said they planned to bring the case to County Court as soon as possible and to introduce the previously disallowed evidence.

According to McCloskey's attorney, a share of the two-million-dollars has been held in escrow awaiting the outcome of court action.

Among other things, McCloskey claims he was not notified of the club's intention to dissolve. He also plans to ask for a financial accounting of the royalty payments.

District Nike Sites 'Open House' Sunday

District Nike sites — with their weapons — will hold an "open house" on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

The observance will commemorate the 40th anniversary of the U. S. Army's first antiaircraft installation.

Nike sites in the district are located at Finleyville, Elrama and Elizabeth. They are part of the 18th AAA Group with headquarters at South Park.

The public is invited to inspect the bases which run the industrialized Pittsburgh district and provide 24-hour protection against a possible enemy air attack.

The first American antiaircraft group was organized on Oct. 10, 1917 in France. Since then, it has grown into today's complex missile defense system under the command of the Army Air Defense with headquarters at Ent Air Force Base, Colorado Springs.

Police-Killer Gunman Is Caught in Indiana Woods

Another Man Is Slain in Wild Gun Battle

NORTH VERNON, Ind. (UP)—Three Indiana state policemen today captured the surviving one of two gunmen who had killed two state troopers and wounded three other officers in a series of running gun battles across two states.

They identified him as Victor Wayne Whitley, 26, Granger, Tex. Lt. Fred Lee, Sgt. William Kirkham and Sgt. Bob Grey of the state police flushed him out of a thinly-wooded area near a farm five miles south of here. He surrendered with his hands in the air when they hailed him from a patrol car.

Whitley and his slain companion, believed to have been Ralph Walker Taylor, 36, of near St. Albans, W. Va., were wanted for the slaying of a Michigan state trooper and an Indiana state policeman. They also were sought for the abduction of a woman and a man in Michigan and a deputy sheriff in Indiana, the wounding of a Michigan state trooper, a North Vernon city policeman and an Indiana trooper, and at least one bank robbery.

Covered with Blood

Whitley, a tall, blond young man with a crew cut, was covered with blood from briar scratches, but otherwise unhurt.

He was unarmed and was taken to the state police post at Seymour, Ind., for questioning. His companion had died from wounds earlier in the chase and was thrown out of a car along a roadside.

Killed by the gunmen were Michigan state trooper Dugald Pellot and Indiana state policeman William Kellems.

Michigan state trooper Douglas Vogel, 27, was seriously wounded near Jackson, Mich., at the same time Pellot was killed.

Wounded in a gun battle with the surviving bandit were Lester Kenens, a North Vernon city policeman, reported in critical condition, and Indiana state trooper Robert Pond, shot in the hand.

The dead bandit carried three different identification cards, and police were unable to definitely identify him immediately. The cards listed the names of Victor W. Whitley, Morgan City, La.; Glenn Keyser, Ashland, Ky., and Bob Mason, no address.

The bandits, both about 20, were believed wanted for a cross country crime spree that included bank robbery.

Integration Solution Is Local, Leader Says

READING, Pa. (UP) — Gov George M. Leader said today that while the federal government must supply the "moral pressure and the physical protection" to carry out the U.S. Supreme Court decisions, school integration can be accomplished only through local decisions.

The governor told the annual convention of the Pennsylvania League of Cities that "in the tragic crisis that has come upon us in the field of race relations, the solutions, finally, must be local ones."

"Neither the Army nor the National Guard can operate a school," he said. "Desegregation will come only when thousands of school boards accept it as fact and make local plans to act. The federal government must supply the moral pressure and the physical protection which will insure compliance with the Supreme Court's decision; the actual development of an equal and integrated system of education throughout the United States must inevitably be the result of a host of local decisions."

The governor said there is "enormous responsibility in local government, more than at any time in history."

"Before any of us become too smug in our contemplation of what has happened elsewhere, let us be sure that we are doing everything within the power of our own communities to eliminate prejudice and guarantee opportunity."

Leader rapped the 1957 Legislature for sending to his desk a "collection of bad bills," which he said he vetoed because they would have taken away the rights of cities to govern themselves.

tration originally slated for Wednesday.

Parochial Schools Open

The city's three parochial schools seemed to be escaping the brunt of the epidemic. Classes were reported normal at both St. Leonard's and St. Hyacinth's.

However the eighth grade was sent home today at Holy Name school.

In Rostraver Twp., the Junior High and Senior High schools were hard hit with absences again today, but school officials said they felt it wisest not to suspend classes. About 40 per cent of the students were absent from the Junior high, 30 per cent from the Senior high.

Only two Rostraver teachers reported off and attendance in elementary schools was described as normal.

The Rostraver-Glassport football game, originally scheduled for Friday at Rostraver, has been postponed until Saturday to give ailing players an extra day of rest.

At Bellmarette schools, attendance was reported "about normal" with no intention of dismissing classes. A principals meeting was held this morning to discuss the situation.

St. Sebastian parochial school in Belle Vernon also reported normal attendance.

Started Friday

The epidemic has had no effect on district industries as yet. Pittsburgh Steel Co. reported some absenteeism at its Monessen plant, but said that production was not affected.

The ailment, which city and school officials have avoided labeling as the "Asiatic flu", usually consists of a sore throat, head cold and high fever. It lasts only for a few days, but leaves the victim somewhat weakened.

The epidemic started picking up momentum last Friday when 450 students were absent at Monessen Junior - Senior High school. Yesterday classes at the Junior-Senior high were suspended, but school officials hoped to resume today.

With more absences reported throughout the city school system, Dr. Pallone ordered all public schools closed for the remainder of the week.

vin Griffin of Georgia, announced Monday he would not attend because Eisenhower had not agreed to discuss withdrawal of troops from Little Rock.

Limits Subject Matter

Griffin also said he was unwilling to discuss "the operation of the public schools of Georgia" at the White House meeting. The governors conference at Sea Island, Ga., authorized the committee only to discuss the Arkansas troop withdrawal issue.

Collins told the United Press after Monday night's meeting the "basic hope" of the group was to "achieve the removal of troops from Little Rock." He said the governors hoped to present "concrete proposals" to the Chief Executive, and added the matter involved "legal technicalities."

He did not elaborate. But it appeared the governors felt there was a question of what further legal authority could be utilized to assure law and order in Little Rock if federal troops are removed before local or state troops are prepared to guarantee orderly execution of court-ordered integration.

Troops Leave Town

About 250 of the paratroopers who have been guarding Central High School in Little Rock left late Monday for the outskirts of town—a move that could have been timed as a conciliatory gesture in advance of today's meeting.

Another factor that might influence the troop removal question is the federal plan to prosecute instigators of the Sept. 23 mob violence. Some Justice Department officials and public figures in Little Rock believe mob violence might vanish if ringleaders are jailed or enjoined from further anti-integration activities.

Evidence mounted today that criminal prosecution of the ringleaders is near at hand. This also might make Eisenhower readier to agree to some plan for gradual withdrawal of federal force from Little Rock.

Soviet Quiet About Their Earth Satellite

WASH[illegible] scientists have built a new Iron Curtain—[illegible] lite this time—and U.S. scientists today were somewhere between frustration and exasperation over the whole thing.

Both this country and Russia announced two years ago they would try to launch artificial moons during the International Geophysical Year (IGY). IGY is a cooperative venture of the world's scientists to amass knowledge about the planet and its role in space.

This country has told practically all about its satellite program. The Russians have told practically nothing about theirs.

This week Soviet science had another opportunity to talk—at a 13-nation conference here on IGY rocket and satellite programs.

At the opening session of the six-day conference Monday the Russian delegates passed up all opportunities to divulge technical details other nations must have if they are to cooperate in tracking the Soviet moons.

Moreover they disclosed the Soviet satellites will broadcast their position - spotting radio signals on a frequency far different from that long ago adopted by the U.S. program.

This apparently will have the effect of making 10 costly "minitrack" stations, set up by this and cooperating countries for the U.S. satellite, useless in tracking the Soviet moon.

Monday attorneys Godfrey P. Schmidt and Thomas J. Dodd, acting for the complaining members, asked the Appeals Court to look again at the case. They said there was danger the convention might go ahead with a "quickie" election before Warren acted.

The court denied the request. It said it is accepting assurances of Teamster attorney Martin F. O'Donoghue that the election will not be held before Thursday or Friday.

Japanese Claiming Toy Paint Harmless

TOKYO (UP) — The Japanese government said today it is convinced there is nothing injurious in the paints used in Japanese toys.

It said it was paying the "most serious attention" to the warnings issued by the Toy Guidance Council in the United States against lead paint allegedly used in Japanese toys and declared, "We are prepared if necessary to take appropriate measures."

The Foreign Ministry took note of the campaign, which Japanese toy manufacturers pointed out came just before the Christmas season.

"Our country has for a long time been endeavoring to elevate the reputation of its export toys and improve their quality, and it has been paying attention also to the paints used," the Foreign Ministry said.

"Judging from previous records and experiences, we are convinced that the paint used on export toys is not dangerous or injurious to the human body.

"Japan exported more than $50,000,000 worth of toys in fiscal 1956, and of this amount $34,000,000 was exported to America. But from nowhere has it yet been reported that the health of an infant has been affected by the paint from Japanese - made toys.

"As to the flow of reports saying that Japan - made toys appearing in the United States recently contain a high degree of lead and are extremely dangerous the government lacks sufficient information at this time to say what tests the U.S. side conducted or by what standards it decided they were dangerous."

Giannini Legion Commander

Will Head Post for Third Time

Angelo Giannini was elected to a third term as commander of Monessen Thomas McKee Post 28, American Legion, at a special meeting last night in the Legion Home on Fourth St.

The special meeting was called to fill the vacancy created when Peter Stieska, who was reelected to a second term as commander, submitted a written resignation prior to being installed as commander for the second term.

Giannini and other incoming officers will be installed by the 31st district commander and his staff at 8 p m. Wednesday, Oct. 9. Besides Giannini, others to be installed are:

Boris Pishko, first vice commander; William Pavlovich, second vice commander; C. R. Murphy, finance; George Chesmar, chaplain; Nicholas Alexander, sergeant-at-arms, and Andy Valko, historian.

Chairmen Named

Chairman for the installation ceremonies are: Jack Snyder, publicity; Gilfert Mihalich, reception; William Pavlovich and John Simkanich, refreshments, and Harry McDermott and Louis Domanich, entertainment.

During the business meeting, John Klipnich reported on the success of the recent corn roast.

Adjutant Snyder reported on the membership, stating the current fiscal year starts today. He said 75 already have paid dues for 1958. A membership drive headed by Pishko will get underway immediately following installation.

Two members, Perry Cozza and Michael Zubko, are in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Oakland, Pittsburgh.

Simkanich and Frank Vizza were appointed co-chairmen of a committee to prepare a float for the annual Halloween parade here.

A donation of $5 was voted to the Monessen Public Library.

James Trimarchi Named to State Turnpike Board

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today appointed E. James Trimarchi Jr., Democratic chairman of Indiana County, to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Trimarchi succeeds Dr. Merritt A. Williamson, who is stepping down as acting commission chairman to return to Pennsylvania State University as dean of the engineering school.

The appointment followed by a day the naming of Philadelphia attorney Lewis M. Stevens as state highways secretary, and the resignation of Joseph J. Lawler from that post to become another turnpike commissioner.

Trimarchi, Stevens and Lawler will be sworn into their new posts at ceremonies later today in the governor's office.

Stevens takes over the multi-million dollar highways operation at a $20,000 annual salary. Lawler and Trimarchi will receive $13,000 a year on the turnpike agency.

The governor described Trimarchi as an "outstanding young man ...very much interested in safety factors on the turnpike."

The new commissioner is a graduate of Pennsylvania State University where he specialized in business administration and political science.

Gold Shipment Stolen Along Busy Expressway

NEW YORK (UP)—A police and the FBI today followed the trail of two Jesse James - style road agents who pulled a modern stagecoach gold robbery on a busy New York expressway.

Somewhat like an up-to-date TV western without commercials, the drama began to unfold Monday when Pasquale Bosco, 30, a driver for the S.J.Y. Air Freight Co., picked up a reported $15,000 shipment of gold at Idlewild Airport.

As Bosco drove along the Long Island Expressway leading to Manhattan, two men in a black sedan pulled alongside his panel truck. The man next to the driver waved, and Bosco waved back. The stranger waved again, only this time with a black revolver

"If you value your life, get off at the next exit," the gunman shouted.

Bosco said he took the next exit off the expressway, the sedan right behind him. When he stopped, the man with the gun jumped into his truck and told him to drive on.

Stopping again, Bosco said the man asked him, "What have you goth" "Gold," the truck driver told him, and the gunman handcuffed him to the steering wheel, then removed the crate containing the 25-pound gold bar.

The robbery was especially painful for the S J.Y. Air Freight Co., which was formed only last Friday. The gold shipment was to have been its first delivery.

Homecoming at Union Baptist Church Sunday

The second annual Homecoming Day will be observed Sunday at the Union Baptist Church. The pastor, the Rev. E. W. Jarrett, will be in charge of the morning service.

At 3 p.m. there will be a special service with the Rev. W. T. Hill, pastor of the Vermont Baptist Church of Creighton, in charge. Singing groups of the Vermont Church will also take part.

Others participating in the program include Mrs. Bertha Jones of Charleroi, who will give a reading; Charles Bolden, a solo and Hilda Walters, a paper.

Dinner will be served after the services. Mrs. Hattie J. Boone and Mrs. Jimmie Lee Morgan are serving as co-chairmen.

India Cuts Imports

NEW DELHI, India (UP) — The Indian government has announced drastic cutbacks on imports in line with a nationwide economy drive.

County Tax Office Faces 'Mechanization'

Westmoreland County may "mechanize" its tax office.

The county commissioners have "provisionally" accepted a bid for mechanical equipment to prepare tax and assessment forms.

If, and when the new equipment is ordered, it will eliminate transscribing, auditing and extending tax records through manual methods which have been in use for many years. As a result, the commissioners predict a tidy saving for the taxpayer in the form of a smaller payroll.

The commissioners opened four bids on the equipment at a meeting last week. The low bid was from a firm which has since announced a price increase.

After Commissioners Robert A. Kilgore, Jay W. Kromer and Smith McKee, Jr. discussed the matter it was decided to advise the firm submitting the lowest bid that the county is willing to accept the original offer. If this is refused, the commissioners will reject all bids for the equipment and ask the county controller to advertise again.

Much Business

The commissioners transacted considerable business during their two and a half hour meeting.

A letter was presented from the Clear Pane Window Co., Greensburg, which offered to wash all the windows of the county courthouse and the courthouse annex once a month and the storm windows once each three months at a price of $271 per month.

Board Chairman Kilgore said that the county has been paying a man $180 per month to wash the windows in the courthouse alone, not including the annex, nor does this cost include legal liability compensation which the local window cleaning firm has included in its price.

Chief Clerk W. Everett Noel was instructed to advise the local concern to submit a formal contract for the commissioners' consideration.

A request of James Hughes, county schools superintendent, for a per pay rate for an extra clerk in his office to help out three days a week was referred to Controller Leonard B. Keck, a member of the salary board.

Judge Carson Told by Doctor To Take Rest

President Judge Roy I. Carson of Washington County has been advised by his physician to rest for at least a month.

A fellow jurist, Judge David H Weiner announced yesterday that Judge Carson will not be available to hear arguments before the court "en banc."

Ordinarily all three Common Pleas jurists sit together when the court convenes "en banc." With Judge Carson absent, Judge Weiner and Judge George T. Cummins will comprise the bench

Judge Weiner said that attorneys will be given three choices in view of Judge Carson's illness. They will be permitted to argue before the two remaining jurists, they will be allowed to continue their cases until January or they will be permitted to ask for a third "visiting judge."

District Persons Chosen for Jury

The following district persons have been drawn to serve as jurors in Westmoreland County Court of Common Pleas which will open next Monday:

Monessen — Gus Arcuri, Paul Batiste, John Gallik Jr., Mrs. Thelma Latkanich.

Rostraver Twp. — Sherman Felgar.

South Huntingdon Twp. — Mrs. Iola Davis, John Orisik, Wayne Miller, Anna Blum Metteives, John Hynek, Joseph Hazy.

West Newton — Frank Kotouc, Harry Hamilton.

Smithton — Martin Bosetti.

Lions Club to Hear Address On Fluoridation

A medical research expert will address the Monessen Lions Club Thursday at the Slovak Home on the controversial subject: "Fluoridation of Water."

Dr. George Shontz, associated with the University of Pittsburgh and Children's Hospital, has accepted an invitation to discuss fluoridation.

Dr. Shontz said he will cover in some detail "both the pros and cons" of fluoridation. He will also conduct a question and answer period following his talk.

The fluoridation issue has stirred considerable interest in Monessen recently. Last week City Council agreed to appoint a panel of physicians and layman to study the advisability of having the city's water supply fluoridated.

City officials have been invited to the Lions Club affair, which will be held in the form of a dinner meeting beginning at 6:15 p. m.

Tax Holiday in Chartiers Twp. Comes to End

CANONSBURG, Pa. (UP) — A tax holiday was over today for more than 200 Chartiers Twp. property owners.

Failure to assess their land was discovered in a survey ordered by the Legislature, according to E. M. Lheureau Jr., chief assessor for Washington County. In some instances taxes have not been paid for five years.

County workers are bringing records up to date, Lheureau said, but he doubted whether the tax could be collected for as far back as 1952.

The chief assessor said most property owners would get tax bills for 1957 and 1958.

Lheureau said he would not be able to estimate how much money the township and county lost until after the survey was completed.

Rostraver Twp. Army Officer Leaves Service

Col. Lawrence A. Floro of Rostraver Twp. has retired from the Army after 30 years of active duty.

One of the district's best known Army officers, he concluded his service yesterday. He plans to return to his home near Smithton.

Colonel Floro served in three wars: World War I, World War II and the Korean War. He was wounded while serving with Company M of the 111th Infantry Regiment, 28th Infantry Division, during the battle of the Marne at Chateau Thierry, France.

Colonel Flora became personally acquainted with many district men during the early part of World War II in 1942 when he served as officer-in-charge of aviation cadet recruiting for western Pennsylvania with headquarters in Pittsburgh.

Later he took command of the entire Recruiting and Induction District for western Pennsylvania with headquarters in the Old Post Office Building, Pittsburgh.

Colonel Flora enlisted in the Army on April 13, 1917.

He saw active duty during World War II in the Pacific. Upon his return from Japan, he was appointed port engineer for the western Pennsylvania military district.

He was later transferred to Uniontown where he served as senior unit instructor for the U.S. Army Reserves. In 1953, he was transferred overseas where he was deputy commander of the Chinon Engineer Depot near Tours, France.

France Plunged into New Political Crisis

PARIS (UP) — France was plunged today into its most difficult political crisis since World War II. There was speculation Gen. Charles De Gaulle might be called from political retirement to save the Fourth Republic.

The government of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury fell on a vote of confidence shortly before midnight. The issue was his proposed law to give more home rule to rebellious Algeria, and the fight against it was led by fiery Conservative Jacques Soustelle.

Never since the war has France been split so deeply on an issue as on Algeria. A solution appeared impossible and the influential Paris newspaper La Monde warned that the crisis may be so big there may even be a "call to De Gaulle."

De Gaulle retired from active politics in 1952 after helping form the Fourth Republic at end of World War II and twice serving as premier.

France's splintered National Assembly voted 279-253 against Bourges - Maunoury's "framework law" for Algeria and the 109-day government fell with a crash, triggered by Soustelle's declaration the plan would lead Algeria to independence.

It was the 23rd postwar government.

President Rene Coty refused to accept Bourges-Maunoury's resignation but that was a routine move which means only he will remain as a "caretaker" premier until a new government can be formed. But it meant France began the day with no formal government.

Tradition decreed that Coty would turn first to Soustelle though his talks today were little more than formalities and it appeared impossible that Soustelle, a rightwing Conservative, ever could muster enough votes to win approval.

Situation Normal

NOW THAT the Pittsburgh Pirates have finished another season at the bottom of the National League, it's time to recall the early-season optimism with which we were regaled last spring.

The Pirates, they told us, were now an up-and-coming club with a roster of young fireballs who couldn't miss and a sprinkling of proven players who were candidates for the Hall of Fame. "We'll finish no lower than fifth and probably fourth," said the then manager who's name now eludes us.

The Pirate fans, who have the shortest memories in the human race, took this very seriously and for several weeks it was hard to get a good seat at Forbes Field. And the sports pages of the Pittsburgh papers were filled with interminable essays, all in the most serious vein, on the theme that Branch Rickey was about to be vindicated. And that fellow on the radio who never uses fewer than six words when one will do went into ecstacies every time a Pirate hit anything better than a foul tip.

This seemed to go on until around the latter part of July, by which time it was apparent that this was where we came in last year. The sports writers, having at last shaken off the effects of the spring's brain-washing at Mt. Myers, resumed their speculation that the Pirates were about to be sold to a junk dealer.

It seems to us that the Pirate fan, before the long winter again weakens his resistance to the April madness, should decide whether he is ever going to take the Pittsburgh club seriously again. Or whether, like the folks at Washington who have made the Senators into a community joke, he will go to Forbes Field when he is in a mood for comedy and to the Little League park when he wants baseball.

Sen. Russell's Lapse

SENATOR Richard B. Russell, generally considered one of the more temperate members of the southern Democratic bloc in Congress, must have had a temporary lapse of reason when he compared President Eisenhower's use of federal troops at Little Rock to the "police state methods" used by "Hitler's storm troopers".

The President managed to contain himself after receiving Senator Russell's telegram although, considering that Mr. Eisenhower had something to do with disposing of Hitler's storm troops, we could have forgiven him had his reply been a little more indignant than it was.

"I must say," wired the President to Mr. Russell, "that I completely fail to comprehend your comparison of our troops to Hitler's storm troopers.

"In one case, military power was used to further the ambitions and purposes of a ruthless dictator; in the other, to preserve the institutions of free government."

Well said, it seemed to us.

We hope Senator Russell has now recovered his equilibrium. He has been a steady, sensible voice in the Senate and in southern political councils. Although he is a committed segregationist, he was one of the Democratic leaders who helped produce the civil rights bill in the recent Congress. That bill, everyone seemed to think, represented a beginning effort by the south's responsible leaders to accomodate themselves to the national point of view on race problems.

We have to count on men like this to keep their heads.

Hard to Believe

THE EVIDENCE piling up against James Hoffa is reaching such a staggering height that we do not see how even those delegates to the Teamsters Union convention who are pledged to him can vote for him for president and keep their self-respect.

Any Teamster members who were outraged by the loose fashion in which President Dave Beck intermixed his own finances with those of the union must be horrified by Hoffa's depradations as these are being catalogued by the Senate investigating committee.

Hoffa not only took money from the union treasury for his own purposes, but he actually "loaned" union money to outsiders and then personally "borrowed" it from these individuals for his own use. And no security was involved in any of these transactions.

The sum total of all this seems to be that the vast and powerful Teamsters Union has been a bottomless financial well from which a little knot of corrupt officers has been drawing illicit personal wealth. And so tight has been the control which these men have asserted over the membership that Hoffa, who must be the most venal of all these leaders, is actually on the verge of being elected to the presidency.

If we couldn't see it about to happen, we wouldn't believe it.

The "flu" symptoms may not be serious to the doctors, but Monessen High's football coaches can't be so philosophical about it.

From Washington—

Stassen Is Respected as Diplomat

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

LONDON — In the interests of fairness and accuracy Americans will be interested to know that Harold Stassen, as a cool, patient, poker-faced disarmament negotiator with the Russians, has a far higher rating here in Europe than the press generally has given him in Washington.

Mr. Drummond

The purpose of this report is to help keep the record straight on the work of President Eisenhower's disarmament specialist who may well have a brighter future as a diplomat than as a politician.

I have talked with the professionals in three capitals who sat with him and worked with him during the weary frustrating months of the London talks and their judgment is unanimous:

That, with the possible exception of Gen. Alfred Gruenther, who negotiated the four-power Austrian military agreement, Stassen proved abler than any American official in dealing with the Soviets.

That among all the Allied participants in London Mr. Stassen proved himself preeminent in being able to sit out the Russians and to keep from being goaded into anger or being trapped into petty polemics.

That his distinctive contribution was to keep his part of the discussions constantly constructive, at a high level of earnestness, and never to be drawn off into minor debating points.

Want Him Back

When I left Washington Mr. Stassen was being constantly belittled. Very few were willing to give him even a passing grade as a negotiator.

This view is not shared over here at all. His Allied colleagues give him A for competence and skill and A-plus for the kind of equable patience and persistence needed for this kind of diplomatic job. They hope he will be back on the Allied team.

One of the Allied negotiators appraised Stassen's role this way in a conversation I had with him a few days ago:

"Stassen never lost his head and never lost his temper. That was good. He never let the Soviet delegate successfully bait him and he kept the argument at the high level of seriousness which the great issue of disarmament deserves. He never indulged in petty debate. He could sit and wait and let the Soviets talk themselves out better than most of us."

Then what of the point that Mr. Stassen took an over-rosy unrealistic view of the prospects of agreement?

Sound Tactic

The view of my informants was that this was a completely sound and useful tactic, that when Stassen kept saying there were areas of agreement between the West and the Soviets it was embarassing for the Soviets to have to keep saying that there were no areas of agreement and that having adopted the tactic of negotiating with optimism he had sense enough to stay with it.

Obviously if it were Mr. Stassen's considered view that the Soviets were nearing a first-step agreement at London, his judgement was bad and and he was wide of the mark. But I find no one who thinks that he was being fooled at any time.

I am not suggesting that Mr. Stassen can get a disarmament agreement out of the Russians if they do not want one. But I am reporting that in the view of those closest to the London talks Stassen has outstanding capabilities as a negotiator with the Soviets and that when and if Moscow is ever ready to talk business Stassen is one who can help make sure we get the best, hole-proof agreement.

This leaves me with the conclusion that it would be regrettable if we let domestic politics or any inner-administration jealousy sidetrack Mr. Stassen when he can do a useful job.

Merry-Go-Round—

Arab World Makes Progress

By DREW PEARSON

Editor's Note: Drew Pearson today writes from the desert kingdom of Jordan to which the United States recently rushed modern weapons.)

AMMAN, Jordan — Just outside my window in the Hotel Philadelphia is an ancient Roman amphitheater built before Pontius Pilate, the Roman procurator, decreed the crucifixion of Christ. Among the marble seats where Roman crowds once looked down on the lions and the gladiators, goats now browse. Weeds grow between the marble slabs. Donkeys amble past the amphitheater as they did in the days of Joseph and Mary. All is serene and peaceful.

Mr. Pearson

But in the rest of Jordan and the Arab world it is not peaceful.

"The Arab world," King Hussein of Jordan told me, "after sleeping for centuries, has now raced ahead."

This is what presents the great problem for the United States if it is to continue its interest in Israel, in oil, and its desire to keep the Arab world from coming under Russian domination

For King Hussein is right. The Arab world, after sleeping since the 15th century, has now raced ahead. It is experiencing as many social changes in one decade as the United States experienced in one century. It is jumping from a nomad economy of goat herdsmen to an industrial economy of airplanes and factories in a few short years. In 1948, the city of Amman had a population of 40,000. Today, 10 years later, its population is almost 240,000. In 1910, Jordan was a sleepy desert sheikdom under Turkey in which no one could travel at night outside the city. Caravans had to be heavily guarded. Only in the city was there safety.

Today, Jordan is relatively safe in the countryside. But in the city there's assassination, bomb-throwing, rioting—the techniques of violent modern politics when a people who don't understand politics have to learn it rapidly.

Refugees Spread Politics

The first awakening of the Arab world came in 1866 when a group of New York Presbyterians founded Beirut College The college trained Arab leaders in the ways of the west, planted the first seeds of democratic revolt against 500 years of Turkish rule.

The second great awakening came when Palestinian refugees, fleeing from what is now Israel, fanned out through the Arab world.

While the lot of the refugees, in many cases, has been hard, their political influence has been tremendous. They have been the single greatest factor in the Arab awakening since the end of Turkish rule. Just as the tribes of Israel, exiled from Palestine, carried with them an advanced culture, so the Arab refugees fleeing from the same part of the world have spread more advanced political and social theories.

For under the British mandate, Palestine reached a higher standard of government than any other part of the Near East. Schools were better, universities excellent. And the Arabs who left when Israel took over in 1948 have provided many of the doctors, teachers, diplomats, architects, editors for the Arab nations today.

Every Arab delegation to the United Nations in New York has one or more Palestinian refugees serving as adviser. The publisher of the leading Arab paper in Beirut, Al Hayat, is a refugee, Kamel Mrowa. The editor of the chief Arab weekly, "Magazine," is Clovis Rizk, a refugee. The architects who have designed the beautiful new buildings in Damascus, Beirut and Amman are refugees. The reason why Amman has grown from a city of 40,000 to a city of 240,000 in 10 years is refugees.

Up on one of Amman's eight hills is a new street nicknamed "Marble Row," because of the beautiful new homes, largely built by Palestinian refugees. Their cost: about $200,000 each.

Saud's Time Is Up

Wealthy refugees, of course, are in a great minority. The vast majority of refugees are peasants still living in camps.

But whether in camps or in high places, the Palestinian refugees have been the dominant factor in the awakening of the Arab world and in contributing to its political instability. They are one reason for demands of land reform, and also for hatred of the United States and England.

When I asked a top expert on the Arab question what was the future of King Saud of Saudi Arabia, he replied:

"His time is up. He'll last about five years. Saud has Palestinian refugees and they are too advanced to let him get away with a feudal monarchy. They have gone out to carry the torch of democracy all over the Arab world."

In Jordan, the refugees hate King Hussein because Hussein is pro-west. They hate the United States and Britain because we have been sympathetic to Israel.

If the United Nations Relief and Works Agency, which has done a remarkable job of handling refugees, should try to take the refugees now living in Jordanian camps out of those camps and settle them in Iraq, which has a labor shortage, King Hussein would be overthrown. The refugees would never stand for it. They want to remain in their camps, even in poverty, as a symbol of bitterness against Israel, a symbol of determination to go back to Israel.

No matter what their poverty, no matter how long they have to wait, they prefer to sit in filth and bitterness till the day comes when they can return.

King Hussein would like to have them leave Jordan for Iraq, but can't say so publicly. Iraq could use most of them. But as the Iraqi Minister of Development once remarked in an unguarded moment: "To use refugees on our irrigation projects would solve the refugee problem."

He didn't say so, but the implication was clear. Arab leaders are determined to keep the refugee problem unsolved, held as a sword over Israel.

The Cynic's Corner—

Political Changes Due In Southern States

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — Long before racial integration has been imposed in the schools of such states as Virginia and South Carolina by force or otherwise, the mirage of a white man's Republican Party in the South will have faded for another long span of years.

Mr. Wilson

Presidential elections will be coming up on schedule, however, compelling white Southerners to consider where to hang their political hats.

It was only last June that Chairman Meade Alcorn of the Republican National Committee brought to President Eisenhower's office I. Lee Porter of Virginia.

Porter was then the newly appointed organizational director for the Republican Party in the South. He and Alcorn told the President about a "dead earnest drive" to build the Republican Party in Southern states.

The drive now is dead enough—except for such opportunity as may be offered by the improved opportunity to vote now guaranteed Southern Negroes.

But For Where?

If Southern Negroes choose to enter the Democratic Party, Southern whites may be expected to leave it. But for where? If Southern whites are not jostled out of the Democratic Party by invading Negroes, they are likely to leave anyway in protest against the presidential candidate and platform adopted in 1950 by a Democratic National Convention in which they will have no more than a small voice.

The political instability of the so-called Solid South in presidential elections has been demonstrated repeatedly in recent years. Herbert Hoover modestly cracked the South in 1928 when his opponent was New York's Alfred E. Smith, a Catholic who opposed national prohibition of alcoholic beverages.

J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina headed a state's rights protest ticket in 1948. He got 39 electoral votes among Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee. Thurmond's objective was to win sufficient electoral votes to prevent either major party from obtaining a majority of the Electoral College. That would have placed the election of a president in the House of Representatives, each state casting one vote.

South Lacks Influence

Eisenhower carried Florida, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia in 1952, repeating in 1956 with Louisiana added. These breakthroughs encouraged Republicans to hope for a two-party system in the South. Southern strategy got Southerners nothing more than the satisfaction of recording a protest statistic in the final returns.

The time when white Southern conservatives will have any substantial influence in making national political policy or in choosing a president probably is far off. They have lacked such influence now for 20 years. Their bid for power lies in the long service of their senators and congressmen and the committee chairmanships which uninterrupted service earns.

Southern Negro voters might break that up, maybe beginning next year.

Quotes from The News

By UNITED PRESS

NEW YORK — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt on returning from a tour of Soviet Russia:

"The only piece of world news in Communist newspapers was the integration incident in Little Rock, Arkansas. The Russian newspapers usually give about two and a-half columns to world news. These were taken up with exactly what happened in Little Rock."

VATICAN CITY—Pope Pius XII, in saying woman must subordinate herself to man in marriage, but should not shun recent female gains in cultural, professional and political fields:

"On the contrary, she must assume her responsibilities in all domains and face the demands of them with an effective missionary aim."

WASHINGTON — Harry S. Ashmore, executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette, charging that Gov. Orval E. Faubus created the Little Rock school crisis basically for his own political gain:

". . . I don't think this was an act of deep feeling . . . I think it was done for political support in Arkansas."

ENSCHEDE, Holland — One of the 20 widowers who retreated from the first World Congress of Widows and Widowers, attended by about 360 widows:

"There wasn't a one worth looking at."

TEANECK, N.J. — Evangelist Billy Graham, during a sermon at the Teaneck armory:

"Christ is the answer to the race problem in America, and for the problems in the United Nations."

DANVILLE, Ark. — Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas, in telling a fairgrounds crowd that he had been depicted as a country boy:

"I'm proud to be from the country, and I'm glad to be with my people again."

The Lighter Side—

Civilization's Story Written in Rocker

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Will Durant, a bright-eyed Philosopher with silky white hair and a clipped white mustache, has spent most of his working time during the last 28 years gently swaying in an old rocking chair, while setting down the whole massive pageant of civilization in longhand.

The work, in some 3,000,000 words and seven volumes, will come to an end with publication of "The Age of Reason" five years from now.

"I'll be 77 then and maybe walking on intellectual crutches," he says. "Since I started work on the first book, "Our Oriental Heritage," back in 1929, I have read about 500 books in preparing each volume. That's 3,000 books to date, and 500 more to go.

"I accumulate around 30,000 notes for each volume. It's what I call 'Operation Theft.' You can't write history out of your imagination. You have to find what happened. But even the contemporary witnesses don't agree. You have to play one against the other.

Rocking Relieves Tension

"When the research is done, 'Operation Theft' ends and 'Operation Sweat' begins. At home, in Hollywood, I do all my work in a rocking chair with big arms, over which I put a drawing board. And all day long, as I write, I rock just a little bit. Rocking relieves tension, and I think maybe we wouldn't need psychoanalysis if we brought back the rocking chair in America." He chuckled at the thought.

"I write each book twice in longhand, making revisions, and then I type it myself. You can't just put down facts. You have to feel the thing. You deal with things like Charles I wearing five silk shirts when he went to the beheading block—they didn't wear underwear in those days, 1649, and it was in January."

The overall project, called "The Story of Civilization," has been hailed in the literary world as "awe-inspiring," "monumental," "massive and fascinating." Durant says he has never for one moment been sorry he started it: "On the contrary, I felt very lucky. It gives unity to my life and writing. When I get up in the morning, I don't have to ask myself, 'What shall I do next?' It's all laid out for me."

Durant came here for the publication this month of the sixth volume, "The Reformation," covering European civilization from Wyclif to Calvin. Previous volumes appeared in 1935, 1939, 1944, 1950, and 1953. He closes the newest volume with: "Courage, reader! We near the end."

Fights With Wife

"My wife," he says, "reads the same books that I do. We fight a great deal over the interpretation, and that helps me. About 9:30 every evening we break out in a terrific argument. In the present book, she thought I was too tough on Martin Luther. For two years we had a running fight on Luther vs. Erasmus.

"This helped me feel the dramatic conflict during the reformation between two types of mind—Luther, the revolutionist, the Erasmus, the evolutionist. We even put pictures of those two boys on the cover."

In view of the past, where are we headed right now?

"More of the same—international conflicts. Conflicting forces seeking an order. When an order is found, a new conflict arises, and so it goes from generation to generation. And it's just as well. What is life without conflict? What good is a wife if she always agrees and doesn't argue with you? Where would capital be if it didn't have labor to contend with? We grow by conflict and opposition."

HOSPITALITY SHOP — The Hospitality Shop at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital is one of the major projects of the Hospital Auxiliary In the last few years it has been completely remodeled and modernized and offers every convenience for the patients and visitors. Pictured in the room are Carol Pucel, who was a gift shop employe, and Mrs. John Swan, an auxiliary member. Tomorrow the auxiliary members will be busy with another major project "Tag Day in Monessen"

C-M Hospital Auxiliary in Local Tag Day Observance

Members of the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital Auxiliary will don their cherry red smocks and solicit cash donations from the people of Monessen tomorrow to assist them their many projects.

Already successful tag days have been held in Charleroi, Belle Vernon, Fayette City and Donora The observance was held in these communities last Sunday and brought a generous response Mrs Michael Skirpan will head the local effort..

Tag day is conducted annually under the supervision of the ways and means committee and one of the major projects of the auxiliary, which is always actively engaged in raising funds to aid area hospital

Mrs Alex Irvine of Belle Vernon and Mrs Walter Spragg Country Club Rd are the general chairmen of the solicitation

Last year the auxiliary under the direction of the president, Mrs T C Montgomery, who is still serving in that capacity, contributed $15,000 to the support of the hospital For this effort the unit won a life membership in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital Association.

New Project

This year the auxiliary is furnishing and will staff the solarium in the new cardiac wing of the hospital.

The auxiliary adopted for its theme, "Nisi Dominus Frusta" — "Unless the Lord Builds the House is in Vain" The women wear this inscription on their emblems and follow it in all of their activities

One of the many services made available at the hospital by the women who serve is the hospitality shop which celebrated its 10th anniversary on Sept 9

Shop Grows

The shop began with one paid worker and was managed by the auxiliary members Offered for sale were gifts, flowers, cosmetics and sandwiches for the convenience of the patients In 10 years it has grown until there are now three paid workers, and a total of 5,338 volunteer hours given yearly by auxiliary members

The shop is managed by a special gift shop committee headed by Mrs Russell Stone and Mrs. John Gordon, chairmen Mrs John LaCarte is the special buyer Among the services added at the shop are the sale of toys, operation of a soda fountain, soup kitchen and sandwich grill. All types of magazines are available

Gift Cart

During the day two volunteer workers take a well equipped cart around to the rooms for the convenience of the patients, who wish to make purchases and cannot leave their beds

The year round auxiliary program includes the Spring Charity Ball rummage sale, baby photo service and the tag day observance

Tag day is the one day during the year that all local residents can do their part in helping support this group of women, who in turn give all of their funds to make hospital conditions better The women have recently purchased new draperies for the new wing of the hospital, installed the blood bank and new equipment in the nursery.

New Furnishings

At present the auxiliary is earning funds for furnishing the new solarium in the cardiac wing Auxiliary members will also staff the solarium, moving patients there from their rooms, writing letters and performing many of the small friendly services for which they are well noted.

Women of the auxiliary give many hours to their work, and tomorrow they will spend the entire day giving each and every one opportunity to help in a material way.

Steeler, Irish Fans Very Happy

What a difference a victory makes! Never was that statement more clearly brought out than following the Pittsburgh Steelers' victory over the Redskins Sunday . . . Its been a long time since the ticket windows were so jammed following a game that you couldn't get near them and then when you did get to the window the "sold out" sign went up . . . Happy days are here again for Art Rooney and his Steelers crew . . . According to all reports the Black and Gold was very, very impressive . . . Apparently Mr. Buddy Parker knew what he was doing when he made those trades . . . Other very happy district fans are the Notre Dame rooters following the 12-0 Irish win over Purdue . . . Donora's Bob Gaydos played a terrific game for ND.

Bud Jeannette, former New Kensington and Washington-Jefferson College all-time basketball great, has signed to coach the baseketball and baseball teams at the University of Baltimore . . . Jeannette formerly coached and played pro basketball with Detroit, Rochester, Sheboygan, and Fort Wayne, closing out his pro career as player-coach of the Baltimore Bullets . . . McKeesport's Bob Mulgado is being groomed for All-America honors by the Arizona State College publicity department . . . Former 'Hound end Bob Burns is a candidate for the Arizona State frosh eleven . . . Bob Baker never gives up, he's signed for a 10-rounder with Nino Valdes in Denver on Oct. 22 . . . It won't be televised.

Don't Criticize HS Athletes — Manzini

Bap Manzini, Bellmar High grid mentor, told those present at the Fourth Annual Belle Vernon American Legion Bocci League banquet Sunday night that "fans are too critical of high school football players." . . . According to Manzini, "those boys playing high school football are only 16 and 17 years old, they can't be expected to do everything perfectly." . . . Felix Ricci and Dominic (Mingy) Sack captained the winning teams and were presented awards at the banquet. Ricci's "B-flies" winning the top honors, Sack's "Bums" coming in second . . . Borough and county officials were present for the fete as were the Rev. James Percy, pastor of the Lynnwood Lutheran Church and the Rev. Robert Feeney, assistant pastor of St. Sebastian's R. C. Church . . . Movies of the Pitt-Georgia Tech Gator Bowl game completed the program.

In case you are following his travels with as much interest as this writer, our press pal Louis Kichinko is in Los Angeles, following a stop over in Kansas City on his annual vacation sports trip . . . Harry Craft, who formerly played here in the old Penn State League, piloted the Athletics to three victories in the three games Lou witnessed . . . Then he took in the UCLA-Illinois tilt Friday night . . . He says the Los Angeles sports fans are crazy about the thought of Brooklyn coming to LA . . . Two valley products who were expected to go great guns this season have been sidelined with injuries. They are Charleroi's Maury Guttman at Miami and Bellmar's Glenn Shepler at Penn.

Army Holds Jinx Over Penn State

Penn State first met Army on the gridiron in 1899 but the Lions have never been able to take the measure of the Cadets. The rivals haven't met every season since that time . . . State almost earned a tie last year but a terrific from-behind tackle by Bob Kyasky prevented a Lion TD in the final period with the score reading 14-7 . . . If you haven't purchased your ticket as yet for that Band Festival at Bellmar High School's Stadium on Tuesday, Oct. 8, you'd better get with it for they're going fast . . . See any Monessen High band member . . . It'll be quite a show with the wonderful Pitt band setting the pace.

Today's Sports Parade—

Stengel, Spahn Meet First Time in 15 Years

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—The twisted trails of baseball bring Casey Stengel and Warren Spahn together again this week after 15 years apart in which each has gone a long way—and one should go a lot farther.

Their paths first crossed in 1942. That was when Stengel managed the Boston Braves and Spahn, a hot rookie with their Hartford farm club, was brought up to the parent club at season's end.

The years between, in which they went different ways, have been good to each of them.

Stengel moved on before the then 21-year-old Spahn came back from three years in service. Old Case was regarded lightly as a manager in those days and his travels took him to a minor league club—named Milwaukee — and on to Kansas City and Oakland.

But then, starting in 1949, success came to Casey Stengel. He got his big chance with the Yankees and since has proved himself one of baseball's magic managers by winning seven world championships and eight pennants in nine years.

Spahn Top Winner

Meanwhile, the skinny Spahn marched home to the Braves and—two years before Stengel came back to the major leagues—began to establish himself as a left-handed star who can be mentioned in the same breath with such as Lefty Grove and Carl Hubbell.

Today Spahn's 224 victories make him the top winner among active major league pitchers. The 175-pound six-footer holds the National League record for left handers with eight seasons in which he won 20 or more games.

At 36, the Buffalo-born rancher from Hartshorne, Okla., admits:

"I'm not as fast as I used to be there are compensations."

One of them is the rubber arm which hurled the Braves to 21 triumphs this year as they won the National League pennant. Another is the know-how which he has gleaned since Stengel had a look at him those fleeting years ago when he was a gawky, fireball kid.

But Old Case remembers him. "After all," he reminisces. "I gave him his big chance. That was a long time ago by the calendar but I know what he can do. He's a rough customer."

Most Feared Man

He is, as a matter of fact, the man the Yankees fear most as they head into the Series against the Braves.

He should be. This is supported by a Series "outsider" named Harry Brecheen, who sees the possibility of big things for Spahn in this Series.

"If he gets hot, he could win three games because of the way there are two days off for traveling between New York and Milwaukee," Brecheen predicts.

Brecheen should know. The little, hawk-faced man from Broken Bow, Okla., now is "only" pitching coach for the Baltimore Orioles. But he's the one they called "The Cat" back in 1946 when he became the only left hander in history to win three games in one Series by taming the Red Sox with a jug-handled curve.

So the stage is set for a hostile reunion between the manager nobody wanted and the kid he brought out of the bushes. It should be quite a trip into the past—and into the future.

Midget League Contests Postponed

Kline Acts On Advice Of School

Midget Football League games set for tonight have been indefinitely postponed by order of the President Allen Kline.

According to the president he was cancelling the games on advise of school officials here who stated it would be "wise to avoid having crowds gather" during the current flu scare. Nearly 700 students were reported on the sick list at the high school yesterday and more were expected to be absent today.

Tonight's schedule had called for Frank-Lin battling Lincoln, unbeaten Jefferson against Vocational.

Next Week's Card Set

Next week's schedule will prevail as originally carded. Kline stated, with tonight's clashes to be played at the end of the season "if needed" to determine championship or standings.

On tap for next Tuesday night are games between Frank-Lin and Jefferson and a Vocational-Lincoln clash.

Jefferson boasts a 3-0 mark at the half-way point in the season, Lincoln is second with a 2-1 record, Frank-Lin owns a 1-2 slate and the defending champion Vocational eleven has been edged in all three games to date.

STANDINGS

Jefferson	3	0	0	1.000
Lincoln	2	1	0	.667
Frank-Lin	1	2	0	.333
Vocational ...	0	3	0	.000

Schedule — October 8

Frank-Lin vs. Lincoln Jefferson — 7:15 p. m.: Vocational vs. Lincoln in second game.

Midget Drills Postponed

Coach Bucky Lutes of the Vocational Midgets announced today that all practice sessions for his team had been postponed until Thursday evening at 5 o'clock.

All Shutouts in PS Office League

All shutouts featured play in the Pittsburgh Steel Company Office League last night as Payroll blanked Order. General Office the league-leading Engineers and Production stopped Shipping.

Harry Myers hit for a neat 519 three-game high while Jim Salay showed a 201 three-game score. Others boasting top marks were Tom Gilchrist, Bernie Singel, Chip McCleary, Russ LaBrasca and Eugene Pypiuk. Salay had a 496 three game mark, Single a 489 to come close to the '500 mark.

Freeport Leads In Construction

Freeport had first place in the Construction Bowling League today following last night's action with a win over Dandos while the Sharons were edging the Vulcans.

Finney had the three game top mark of 419. Charles Biksey the single game mark of 174. Herb Palm and F. Stancato were also high for their teams.

Standings—Freeport 8-4, Sharons 6-6, Vulcans 6-6 and Dandos 3-9.

St. Monica Sets St. Cajetan Pace

St. Monica had first place all to itself following a shutout of St. Margaret in the St. Cajetan League last night with St. Lucy also topping St. Catherine but by 2-1.

S. Ward had the three-game high of 312. The single game mark was by M. Vesio, 131. I. Pasterick, and B. Manderino also rolled top scores.

Standings — St. Monica 3-0, St. Margaret, St. Catherine 2-1, St. Lucy 1-2, St. Margaret 0-3.

Local Junior High Game Called Off

Monessen's Junior High eleven won't get to show its wares for the home folks tomorrow night.

Al Romasco's lads were scheduled to meet Donora Junior High at 7:30 o'clock at the Stadium here tomorrow evening but the flu or cold scare (or what-have-you) which has practically closed the local schools caused postponement of the contest.

According to Athletic Director Everett Pancook the game has been postponed indefinitely.

Next Foe Monongahela

Next start for the locals is hosting Monongahela's Junior High here next Wednesday night.

Other Junior High games in the district which as of today will be played since the absenteeism isn't as high there as it is in Monessen show the following on tap:

South Huntingdon at Rostraver tomorrow afternoon and Vernon at Fallowfield, Charleroi at Washington.

Monessen's Juniors opened with 13-6 win over Brownsville. Vernon dropped Perryopolis 13-6, and Rostraver clipped Marion, 28-14.

George Kuvinka Paces FS-E Loop

Finishing Side Electric Bowling League action last night found Westinghouse, Pit-Carbon and E. C. and M. topping Reliance GE and Clark.

George Kuvinka showed a 431 for the three-game total honors and also had the three-game total high of 183. Close behind were Nick Alatsis, Bernardo, Al Spadafore, Mike Nicksich and Joe Lenio.

Standings — Pit-Carbon 10-2, Westinghouse 9-3, GE 5-7, EC and M 5-7, Clark 3-9, Reliance 3-9.

Pirates Obtain Three from Farm

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Two righthanded pitchers and an outfielder were obtained by the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday from Columbus of the International League in exchange for shortstop Dick Barone.

Barone, injured and out of action for most of the season, had been on option to the Jets. He played in 95 games, batting .185.

The Pirates received Ron Blackburn, 22, Kannapolis, N.C.; Don Williams, 26, Washington, D. C., and outfielder Howie Goss 22, Bisali, Calif.

New Marks Set In Page League

Electric's 3204 and Galvanize's 1118 were new records for the Page Bowling League in last night's action.

Winners last night were Mechanical No. 1, and Stainless, blanking Testing, Supervisors and Electric and Cold Roll, 2-1 over Galvanize and Mechanical No. 2.

John Woods rolled a 502 three-game total to share top honors with John Magaiz's 220 three single-game high. Other top pointmakers were Andy Imbrescia, Andy Suchy, Frank Mascetti, John Yoki, Al Damore.

Standings — Stainless 9-3, Electric 8-4, Galvanize 7-5, Mechanical No. 1 7-5, Mechanical No. 2 6-6, Testing 4-8 and Supervisors 1-11.

Dodgers to Ask For Extension of Move Deadline

NEW YORK (UP)—This is the day when the Brooklyn Dodgers were supposed to announce their plans for 1958, but instead club President Walter O'Malley is expected to ask a National League meeting for an extension of the deadline.

The New York Giants were likely to make formal announcement at the meeting that they will move to San Francisco for next season.

But the Dodgers were hung up on a legal technicality—failure of the Los Angeles City Council to approve plans for a new Dodger home in that city. A stormy council meeting in Los Angeles Monday night ended with opponents of the plan still blocking the unanimous vote needed for quick approval.

O'Malley goes into today's league meeting, however, armed with "definite" assurance from Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson that the council will approve the ball park next Monday. Under Los Angeles rules, only 10 of the 15 councilmen are needed to pass the bill at that time and Poulson told O'Malley in a telegram early today that the 10 votes are lined up "without the slightest doubt."

Although there were reports that one or two league owners are opposed to granting O'Malley any more time, indications were that Poulson's assurance would get O'Malley an extension.

The Giants, on the other hand, seemed all set to announce their San Francisco plans.

McPeak Doubtful Starter Against Cleveland Browns

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers opened practice today for their game with the Cleveland Browns Saturday night with veteran end Bill McPeak the only doubtful starter for the 15th meeting of the two teams.

McPeak may miss the Brown game because of a badly bruised side suffered in the victory over the Washington Redskins Sunday. It was first feared that McPeak had fractured his ribs but X-rays showed only a bruise.

Coach Buddy Parker will match strategy with Cleveland Coach Pal Brown for the 13th time Saturday. Parker, while with the Detroit Lions, defeated the Browns 10 times out of 12 encounters.

End Ray Mathews, fullback Fran Rogel and tackle Joe Krupa were minor casualties of the Redskin game but were expected to see duty against the Browns.

Ticket Manager Joe Carr said Saturday night's game was a sellout.

Spartans Show Unbeaten Mark; Kayoed Champs

Hempfield Area High School in its first year of football last season was a doormat for all opponents in dropping six games but this year things are entirely different.

Where the 1956 team had only a short time to practice before the opener due to a season of adjustment what with a new school being established, etc., the 1957 team started on even terms with all other district schools.

Coach Bill Abraham greeted no less than 14 lettermen this season who must have learned considerably in last year's defeats for so far this season they are undefeated, having disposed of Class B Hurst (26-18), Class AA Har-Brack (38-12) and defending Class AA champions Jeannette (6-0).

Knocked Champs Out

In fact the defeat by Jeannette at the hands of the Spartans knocked the defending champs from title consideration this season.

Pacing the Hempfielders this season in the scoring department is Sonny Kruel a converted guard, who has been moved to halfback post where he dashed to three touchdowns against Har-Brack, one against Hurst. Kruel, a 140-pounder, is a good break-away runner and also an excellent pass-receiver.

Another transplant, 185-pound guard now turned fullback, Ronald Gaudi, has also shown excellent form scoring in the first two games.

Lettermen Don Eicher and George Cottrell have gone from backs to guards. Eicher goes 162, Cottrell 165 pounds.

As for starters Abraham makes the most of his lettermen with Earl Grand 175, and Bill Hayes 160 at the ends; Jim Wile, 140 and Tom Pellis, 180 hold down the tackle slots with Eicher and Steve Serenko, 160 at guards. Ed Behanna, at 192, is the starting pivotman.

Speed in Backfield

The backfield in addition to Kruel and Gaudio, includes Eddie Johns a 168-pounder at quarterback, an excellent passer who can also run, and Gary Franklin a 168-pound scatback, who can go like the wind. Johns set up the lone TD against Jeannette with an interception and then sneaked for the score.

With all of the above talent facing him, Monessen Coach Armand Niccolai just smiles and says, "If the flu doesn't leave us alone we won't have to worry Hempfield."

The Greyhound mentor also stated assuringly that "we'll be on hand for the game and if a few breaks go our way the Spartans will know they are in a ball game."

BOUNCES BACK — Bobby Bragan (above) has bounced back into the majors as manager of the Cleveland Indians, succeeding luckless Kerby Farrell, who managed this past season. Bragran, 39, was fired as Pittsburgh Pirates manager late in the season and went to the Cuban league as manager of the Almendares club.

Sheffing, Bragan Cite '58 Needs

By UNITED PRESS

Bob Scheffing and Bobby Bragan, with brand new managerial contracts under lock and key, know what they want next.

Scheffing, who was re-hired Monday to manage the Chicago Cubs in 1958, wants to get a new center-fielder. Bragan, who arrived in New York Monday to sign as the new pilot of the Cleveland Indians, wants some more pitching strength.

The Cubs gave Scheffing a new contract on the basis of the Cubs' fast finish this year—a record of 29 wins and 27 losses in the last two months of the season.

The 42-year-old former big league catcher was praised by Cubs' Vice President John Holland for his work with young players.

Golfers' Throats Sore

WORKSOP, England (UP)—Several members of the United States Ryder Cup golf team are being treated for sore throats but are expected to be ready for the start of the Cup matches against Britain's best pro golfers Friday. The Americans posted scores ranging from 72 to 76 during Monday's practice on the local par-70 course.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Wrist Action

Today's drawing shows good golf form with one major exception. The hips and shoulders are pivoting properly; and the left arm is straight as it should be.

The flaw is in the golfer's hands or his wrists, to be exact. He's committed the average golfer's favorite sin — uncocking the wrists too soon.

If he'd played the shot correctly, the shaft would be BACK over his right shoulder. But he has started uncocking the wrists already. When his clubhead reaches the ball, it won't have much oomph left. At any rate, it would have more oomph if he delayed uncocking or unbending the wrists until his hands reached his hips on the downswing.

Another danger today's golfer faces is a slice. Uncocking the wrists so soon forces the clubhead out in a wide arc which means an outside-in swing and a slice.

Rematch Set For DeCola, Archer

NEW YORK (UP) — Promoter Teddy Brenner rematched welterweights Jimmy Archer and Tony DeCola today for another TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena, Nov. 11, because of Monday night's close thriller.

Stocky Archer, a slugging stevedore from New York's Pier 96, swept the last four rounds to come from behind and win a split decision over DeCola, "runner" for a Brooklyn steamship company.

The defeat broke Tony's victory string at six bouts.

Jimmy weighed 145½ pounds to DeCola's 147

Fred Haney Adopts Stengel's Favorite Weapon—Platooning

By LEO H. PETERSEN

NEW YORK (UP) — Milwaukee manager Fred Haney adopted Casey Stengel's favorite weapon — the platoon system—today, revealing he will alternate his right fielders and possibly his first basemen against the New York Yankees in the World Series.

Thus, with southpaw Whitey Ford slated to start for the Yankees in the Series opener at Yankee Stadium Wednesday against left-hander Warren Spahn, Haney said right-handed hitting Andy Pafko will be in right field when Joe Adcock, another right-handed hitter, at first base.

"When the Yankees pitch a right hander," Haney added, "I'll have Bob Hazle in right field and maybe Frank Torre at first base."

Hazle and Torre are left-handed hitters.

Casey Still Undecided

While Haney appeared certain as to who would start for his Braves at every position Wednesday, Stengel still had not made up his mind about three spots—first base, second base and left field.

Husky Bill Skowron, the slugging first baseman who has been sidelined two weeks with a sacroilliac condition, was the key man in Stengel's indecision.

"I still don't know whether he'll be able to play," Casey said. "And if he can't, I'm in real trouble.

"If Skowron can play, it will help me make up my mind who I will start in left field and at second base."

Skowron and Mickey Mantle who has been sidelined by shinsplints in his left leg, both indicated they were ready to play in Wednesday's opener although each explained he wasn't 100 per cent sound.

Howard May Start

Skowron seemed the more doubtful starter of the two and in the event his back prevents him from playing, Stengel probably will use the right-handed hitting Elston Howard at first base. That would mean either rookie Tony Kubek or Enos Slaughter would be in left, and either Gerry Coleman or Bobby Richardson at second.

Stengel had no doubt at all as to the other positions. He said Yogi Berra would catch Wednesday, Hank Bauer would be in right field, Gil McDougald at shortstop and Andy Carey at third base.

Considering his Braves are the underdogs in the Series, Haney was in an expansive confident mood as he arrived here by plane from Milwaukee with his team late Monday.

"I know we have a battle on our hands," he said, "But I don't see any reason why we can't win it."

Haney said that in Wednesday's game his outfield would consist of Hank Aaron in center, Wes Covington in left and Pafko in right. Adcock will hold down first base; Red Schoendienst, second; Johnny Logan, shortstop; Eddie Mathews, third base, and Del Crandall will start behind the plate.

'Fair' Opener Weather

NEW YORK (UP) Good fall weather is the advance forecast for Wednesday's opening game of the World Series. The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted "Mostly fair with seasonable temperatures."

Upsets Starting Much Earlier Than Usual This Year

By HARRY WISMER
Written for the United Press

NEW YORK (UP) — They've started, those upsets that make coaches' hair turn grey or disappear altogether, and make the Sunday and assorted experts look like anything but.

The Big Ten took it on the chin in intersectional and out of conference games for the first time in a long while, and three of the five major upsets featured western conference teams. UCLA started it on Friday night, knocking off Illinois. Stanford and Texas Christian kept up the pressure by hammering Northwestern and Ohio State. Then in an old-fashioned statewide rivalry Notre Dame started off the season in grand style by shutting out Purdue.

In the one conference game played, Michigan State showed undoubted power in overwhelming Indiana. The Spartans have speed, class and depth. On the right side of the ledger for the Big Ten were Iowa's win over Utah State, Minnesota's triumph over Washington, and Michigan's win over Southern California. Wisconsin also messed up Marquette in the other game involving teams from that conference.

Army Shows Class

In the Ivy League, Princeton and Brown were supposed to be the teams to beat. Brown met defeat when a very well drilled and well handled Columbia eleven came up with a fied goal, something seldom used by the collegians. The Tigers had a rough time with Rutgers, and were lucky to eke out a narrow victory. Steve Sebo has a much improved team at Penn. Penn gave the Nittany Lions a battle, and the Ivy League could provide a lot better competition than expected. Army could be the class of the Northeast, the Cadets showed plenty against Nebraska and didn't go all out. We'll know more about the Cadets after their game with Penn State next Saturday.

Now the stock of the Browns, Packers, Colts and Cardinals has taken a boost. But it could be reduced next week end without too much troble.

20,000 Expected At Rolling Rock

LIGONIER, Pa. (UP)—A crowd of 20,000 is expected Wednesday when the 20th annual Rolling Rock races get underway with some of the best steeplechase horses in the country competing for $17,300 in purses.

There will be five races over timber, hurdles and brush on the flat course with the $5,000 International Gold Cup Handicap climaxing two-days of racing on Saturday.

Proceeds from the meet are for the benefit of the Industrial Home for Crippled Children in Pittsburgh. The races have netted more than $230,000 during the past 19 years.

Penn State in Underdog Role Against Cadets

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) —Penn State today found itself in the role it likes best—that of the underdog — when it faces Army here Saturday in a game that has been sold out for two months.

The Nittany Lions have waited for years to meet the Cadets at Beaver Field. They get their opportunity Saturday when Army makes its first visit here. The winner will be acclaimed as one of the best in the East.

The encounter marks the eighth meeting between the rivals with the Lions seeking their first victory since the inaugural in 1899. Penn State, somewhat disappointing in its 19-14 victory over Pennsylvania last week, will be at full strength for the Cadets, who drubbed Nebraska, 42-0, in their opener.

Coach Rip Engle said he looked for the improvement against Army.

"It'll take everything we've got to beat Army," Engle said. "A week ago Army was advertised as weaker than a year ago, Penn State as better. Today our positions are reversed."

Engle blamed inexperience more for errors in the Pennsylvania game.

"It would be unfair to say that our team played badly," Engle said, "but it also would be a mistake to suggest that we can play the same way against Army and not be hurt."

Texas Aggies Taking Capsules To Soften Hurts

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — Texas A&M football players are taking special vitamin capsules designed ficial wounds such as bruises, hematomas and muscle strains and sprains and minimize the recovery time from such injuries, the United Press learned today.

The tests, which have been carried out the past year by team trainer Charles E. (Smokey) Harper and supervised by the team physician, Dr. R. Henry Harrison, are far from conclusive, but Harper said today that he was "impressed with the apparent success" and that he planned to continue using the vitamins.

If it proves as worthy as the preliminary findings indicate, the "bruise pill," as it has been nicknamed, could have a far reaching effect on the treatment of superficial wounds such as bruises, hematomas and muscle strains and sprains for all type of athletes.

Harper emphasized that in no way is the capsule (which carries the trade name C.V.P. and is manufactured by the U.S. Vitamin Corp.) to be construed as a "pep pill."

"It is a bioflavanoid preparation made from citrus peel and juices with Vitamin C added," he said. "It has no pep qualities whatever." He pointed out that this type of medicine has been used by medical authorities in the past in cases where capillary fragility was a problem.

He said that controls conducted on Texas A&M players last season, during spring training and also this fall indicate there is a definite decrease in the incidence of both superficial and deep bruises, sprains and strains among those players who are given the capsule.

Michigan State's Powerhouse Challenging Oklahoma in Poll

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UP) — Michigan State's Big Ten powerhouse moved up to a challenging position behind first-place Oklahoma in the United Press college football ratings today, and Iowa and Auburn advanced among the top 10 teams.

While Oklahoma was idle, Michigan State opened its season with a crushing 5-0 victory over Indiana and jumped two places to second. In points, coach Duffy Daugherty's Spartans clipped Oklahoma's margin of last week from 130 to 62. The Sooners had 338 out of a possible 350 points to Michigan State's 276.

Big Ten Dominates

The 35 coaches who make up the United Press rating board placed four Big Ten teams among this week's top 10. Besides Michigan State, there was Minnesota in third place, Iowa in seventh and Michigan in eighth.

Texas A&M, Oregon State and Navy occupied the fourth through seventh rankings, and Duke and Auburn were ninth and 10th. Auburn, 7-0 upset winner over Tennessee, made the biggest advance of the week, vaulting all the way from a tie for 26th place.

Twenty - seven of the leading coaches, whose ratings have become recognized as the most authoritative in college football, made Oklahoma their No. 1 choice. Four voted for Michigan State and one each for Texas A&M, Iowa, Duke and 17th-ranked Texas.

Georgia Tech Drops

Minnesota jumped up two notches to third place, Oregon State advanced five places to fifth, Navy went from seventh to sixth and Iowa from 12th to seventh. Texas A&M and Michigan each fell two places from last week.

Georgia Tech, tied by Southern Methodist, and Tennessee, beaten by Auburn, dropped out of the top 10 this week.

Baylor headed the second 10 group for the second week in a row, followed in order by Army, Texas Christian, Georgia Tech, North Carolina State, UCLA, Texas, Stanford, Mississippi and Penn State. Other teams that attracted points this week were Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Rice, Southern Methodist, Arkansas and Washington State.

College Grid Ratings

NEW YORK (UP)—The United Press college football ratings (with first - place votes in parentheses):

Team	Points
1. Oklahoma (27)	338
2. Michigan State (4)	276
3. Minnesota	232
4. Texas A & M (1)	169
5. Oregon State	145
6. Navy	121
7. Iowa (1)	112
8. Michigan	106
9. Duke (1)	82
10. Auburn	72

Second 10 teams— 11, Baylor, 64; 12, Army, 46; 13, Texas Christian, 31; 14, Georgia Tech, 29; 15, North Carolina State, 26; 16, UCLA, 17; 17, Texas (1), 12; 18, Stanford, 11; 19, Mississippi, 10; 20, Penn State, 7.

Others— Notre Dame, 5; Pittsburgh, 4; Rice and Southern Methodist 3 each, Arkansas and Washington State, 2 each.

Panthers Prep For USC Trojans

EUGENE, Ore. (UP) — The University of Pittsburgh settled down to serious practice today for its encounter with Southern California Friday night after receiving scouting reports on the Trojans.

Coach Bobby Timmons scouted the Trojans in their 16-6 loss to Michigan last Saturday. Timmons said Southern Cal was "much improved" against Michigan and noted that they play an "aggressive" brand of football with a squad of mostly sophomores and juniors.

The Panthers, who came out of the Oregon contest virtually unscathed, are using Webfoot facilities for practice before departing for Los Angeles.

Ailing Sooners Return

NORMAN, Okla. (UP)—All but one of the 13 University of Oklahoma football players laid up with flu returned to the practice field today for a late afternoon drill. The squad didn't come out until 5:15 p.m., held a 10-minute squad meeting, then returned to the field for about an hour of practice.

Hunters Required to Report Big Game Kill

The Game Commission, as well as other wildlife agencies, both federal and state, have often stressed how important it is to their programs that certain game kill information be turned in by hunters.

The voluntary reporting of leg bands and ear tags carried by small game under study is a valuable contribution by sportsmen anywhere. In Pennsylvania, however, the Game Law requires that the portion of the hunting license provided for reporting big game killed in a wild state shall be properly completed and mailed to the Game Commission at Harrisburg within five days following the close of the season for the deer or bear bagged. The law further stipulates that in case a deer or bear has been killed in season by a person required to secure a license, or by a person who previously killed either species of big game animal, or by a person who lost the tag accompanying his license, such person shall mail to the Commission at Harrisburg a statement setting forth the same information required on the big game report card attached to the hunting license, within the specified time.

Despite repeated explanation as to how important these reports are to game managers in planning the best possible game hunting in Pennsylvania for the future, the interest in making the required big game report, particularly that on deer, has declined in recent years.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission is therefore seriously considering legal action to correct this situation. The Game Law wisely required the report, and hunters should realize the necessity of cooperating as an aid toward ensuring the continuance of good deer and bear hunting in the state.

Safety Class Honored

At the last meeting of the Conewago Rod and Gun Club, held on the sportsmen's property in Lancaster County, the feature of the evening was the awarding of N.R.A. certificates to seventeen youngsters, graduates of the Hunt Safely Course conducted by officers of the club.

In this ceremony, with attendant publicity and flash photos of the occasion, Game Protector John Haverstick was called upon to address the unusual class and to award the certificates. Said he, "This is believed to be the first graduating class of its kind in the country."

Woman Put in Place by Pope

VATICAN VIOY (UP) — Pope Pius XII told 650 women from 63 nations yesterday that while the Roman Catholic church holds the sexes to be equal, woman must subordinate herself to man in marriage.

The Pontiff delivered an address on the social and moral obligations of women to delegates of the 5th congress of the world union of Catholic women's organization.

"God," he said, "created man and woman as persons equal in right and dignity. Therefore no one can say "woman is in anyway inferior".

At the same time, however, he said "wives must submit themselves to their husbands as the church does to God" He supported this statement with references to St. Paul's epistle to the Ephesians.

Security Council Elections

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —Elections to fill vacancies on the Security Council and World Court provided another East-West test of strength in the United Nations today.

Three of the 11 Security seats and five World Court seats were at stake in the General Assembly balloting.

The hottest contest was between Western-backed Japan and Communist Czechoslovakia for a Security Council seat. Japan was expected to win despite Communist claims that the seat rightfully belongs to an Eastern European country.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov called a press conference last week to protest the nomination of Japan, although he never mentioned that country by name.

He cited the so-called "Gentlemen's Agreement" of 1946 on the election of Security Council members by geographical area to support Czechoslovakia's claim. The United States has insisted the agreement lapsed several years ago.

The Steering Committee voted Monday to include on the General Assembly agenda two items proposed by Russia, peaceful coexistence and suspension of nuclear tests.

Two Monessen Men In Support Cases

Support cases involving two Monessen men were heard the past weekend by President Judge Richard D. Laird in Westmoreland County Common Pleas Court.

George Hatalowich was directed to pay $125 per month for the support of his wife, Victoria, and their two children.

A petition of Andy Prokopovitch for a decrease in the support paid his wife was ordered dismissed. He has been paying $18 a week under a court order.

Lewis M. Stevens Is New Highways Secretary

HARRISURG (UP) — Gov George M. Leader yesterday appointed Lewis M. Stevens, 59, former Philadelphia councilman, as state highways secretary, at a salary of $20,000 a year.

Stevens replaces Joseph J. Lawler, who is stepping aside to accept an appsintment to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

The appointment of Lawler to the turnpike clears the way for Merritt A. Williamson, the turnpike's acting chairman, to return to his job as dean of engineering at Pennsylvania State University.

Williamson was appointed to supervise the toll road agency following the suspension of Chairman G. Franklin McSorley, Pittsburgh, in the investigation of the turnpike by a special grand jury.

The governor described Stevens as an "outstanding administrator, a specialist in governmental matters and a man of unquestioned integrity."

"I considered a number of names in making this appointment," the governor said. "The more I looked, the more convinced I became that Stevens was exactly the right man"

Stevens has been prominent in Philadelphia civic and government affairs for several years. He was co-founder and is now a director of the Greater Philadelphia Movement and served as a councilman-at-large from 1952-56. He also is director of the executive committee of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

The new appointee is a partner in the law firm of Stradley, Ronon, Stevens and Young, Philadelphia, and is a close friend of U.S. Sen Joseph Clark. He will be worn into the highways post Tuesday afternoon, when Lawler's resignation becomes effective.

Lawler has served as highways secretary since the start of the Leader administration in January, 1955.

$750,000 Bequest To Penn State From Erie Man

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) —Pennsylvania State University has received a bequest of about $750,000 from the estate of the late Dr. Otto F. Behrend of Erie, it was announced today.

Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of the university, said the bequest was the largest ever received in the school's 102-year history. It was made to Penn State's Behrend Center in Erie, one of the school's 13-off-campus centers.

Dr. Behrend was a brother of the late Ernst R. Behrend, both widely known as founders of the Hammermill Paper Co., Erie Dr. Behrend, who died last May, served as chief chemist, treasurer and a member of the board of directors of Hammermill.

Ernst Behrend's widow gave the university her husband's 400-acre estate on the outskirts of Erie in 1948 The university immediately established an off-campus branch on the site and named it for him

The First National Bank of Erie, executor of the estate, notified the university that upon fulfillment of the many specific bequests of the will the school will receive approximately $750,000.

Westmoreland County Hospital Can Get Surplus

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today announced 18 county homes which operate hospitals are eligible for a portion of $1,250,000 worth of surplus federal property now in state warehouses here.

The governor said the supplies would be made available Oct. 15 They included hospital supplies, laboratory equipment, beds and mattresses.

Hospitals can acquire the property by paying the state handling charges ranging from 2½ to 5 per cent of the original federal government purchase price.

County commissioners in these 18 counties were notified of their eligibility:

Allegheny, Dauphin, Blair, Berks, Cambria, Carbon, Chester, Crawford, Delaware, Lackawanna, Lancaster, Mercer, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Schuylkill, Westmoreland and York.

FRY PAN

Any skillet's a spare oven on a Gas Burner-with-a-Brain

It's true. The cake in the picture was actually baked in an ordinary fry pan, on TOP of a modern matchless Gas range.

We just poured cake batter into a well-greased, 9-inch heavy aluminum skillet. You see the result. That's how exactly the Gas Burner-with-a-Brain controls cooking temperature. (Just think how handy that would be when you have two things to cook at the same time, at different temperatures!)

The new Gas Burner-with-a-Brain actually adjusts ITSELF. A special sensing unit takes the temperature of the bottom of the pan—turns the flame way up at first. As soon as the temperature inside the pan matches the dial setting, the sensing unit turns the flame down automatically to hold the exact heat you want.

Foods won't burn. Pans won't scorch. You never have messy boilovers. You can deep-fry food perfectly every time. You can keep foods warm without drying them out. See a demonstration at your Gas appliance dealer's soon! Remember . . . flame cooking is the finest cooking.

A HEART BEATING — A special camera device developed at the Moody Institute of Science in Los Angeles permits these photos, the first ever made of a human heart beating. They show (top to bottom) the aortic valve closed, opening, and open. This is the valve which controls the flow of blood through the main artery. The human heart was placed inside the photographic device and was made to beat by hydraudlic pressure, thus enabling cardiologists to study its functioning.

Steel Industry Sets Record for Three Quarters

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Steel Magazine said today the steel industry set a record for the first nine months of this year by producing 87.6 million net tons of steel for ingots and castings.

The metalworking magazine noted, however, that output will have to increase during the fourth quarter if the year is to be a record one.

The magazine said the nine-month figure was bolstered by high production in the early part of the year and sustained output at midsummer. Steel said the previous nine-month high was 85.8 million tons in 1955. The figure for 1956 was 82.8.

The magazine said production this year will equal the record 117-million tons made in 1955 if output averages 88 per cent of capacity in the final quarter. Steel said the induhtry will have to make 29.4 million tons of steel, or an average of 9.8 millions tons in each of the final three months. The magazine pointed out that the production figure hasn't been that high since April.

The publication said output for the week ending Sept. 29 ran at 82 per cent of capacity, up one point from the previous week. The yield averaged 2,099,000 net tons. The magazine said production during September was about 8,980,000 tons. This fell short of the September record of 10,422,659 tons chalked up in 1956.

He Couldn't Do A Thing with Own Two Feet

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Elmo Dolling Jr. would be kicking himself today if he thought he could trust his own feet to do the job properly.

As it is, Elmo has no confidence at all in his own two feet, which got him into a peck of trouble Monday.

Dolling, recently released from 18-months' residence in state prison on a grand larceny conviction, was seen lifting two leather jackets in a downtown store.

Clerks and bystanders went after Dolling. He dropped his loot and headed for the inviting doorway of a nearby building.

Then he dashed through the nearest door off a corridor.

Elmo found himself in a rather bare room, occupied by a hefty man who appeared startled at Dolling's hurried entrance.

Dolling plopped into a chair, puffing, and panting for breath. Then, for a few dreadful moments, he nearly stopped breathing altogether.

A close look at the room and its occupant brought home to Dolling a very bitter truth.

His feet had taken him into the Oklahoma County sheriff's interrogation room. The man who sat across from him was Deputy Sheriff Ross Biggers, who locked him up when the posse arrived.

Judge Didn't Bite

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Municipal Judge David Williams was unimpressed with the excuse Tellas H. Harris gave for speeding 90 miles an hour on a freeway and sentenced him to five days in jail. Harris' excuse: He was driving fast because he didn't want a gallon of ice cream to melt before he got it to a church social.

New Government In San Marino

SAN MARINO (UP)—Opposition groups which ousted the Communist rulers of San Marino established a new government in this tiny republic today. Italy promptly granted formal recognition to the new anti-Communist regime.

The Communists have ruled San Marino since World War II. But recent defections suddenly put the Communist bloc in a minority in the 60-man ruling Grand and General Council and the non-Communist faction demanded a change in government.

The anti-Communist majority in the council proclaimed itself the legal government shortly after the regular terms of Communist captains-regents expired at midnight.

3 Kids Dead; 25 Injured

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Three children were killed and 25 others injured Monday when a parochial school bus went out of control down a steep grade and plunged into a 35-foot ravine.

Police said brakes on the bus apparently failed as the vehicle was halfway down the three-block hill. The bus, travelling at an estimated 70 miles an hour, crashed through a guard rail at the end of the street and overturned in the ditch.

Officers said the children were jumbled together in a bloody mass in the wrecked bus.

Mrs. Elsie Steimer saw her boy, Michael, 5, ride the bus to serious injury.

Says Helpless Prayer

"When they went by, I saw him standing up in the bus, waving and shouting," Mrs. Steimer sobbed. "I thought they were having fun until I realized something was wrong. I was helpless. I just prayed that Michael would be all right."

The bus driver, Meldon Smith, 53, was trapped in the vehicle for nearly a half-hour before firemen could remove him. He suffered a broken arm and other injuries.

The bus had left the All Saints Catholic Elementary School at 3 p.m. to take 50 pupils, ranging from 6 to 12 years of age, home. It was nearing the end of its run when the accident occurred. It was estimated about 30 children were in the bus when it was wrecked.

Two Killed Instantly

Two of the children were killed instantly in the crash. They were Steven Maiorca, 8, and John De Santis, 8. A third boy, Edward Ulwelling, died two hours later at Central Receiving Hospital.

Smith had to choose between a sharp left turn at the bottom of the hill or collision with a narrow footbridge.

The bus zoomed straight ahead, hit the bridge and flipped into the 100-foot wide ravine. Witnesses said the left wheels of the bus stayed on the bridge span for a few moments but that the right wheels hung into space. The bus then slowly slipped off the wooden span, did a half roll and crashed upside down in the creek.

Ladies Guild Activities Are Planned Here

Plans have been announced for various activities to be conducted by the Ladies Guild of St. Sebastian Roman Catholic Church over the next several weeks. A card party, bake sale and supper are included in the schedule of events.

On Monday, Oct. 7, there will be a card party in the school. The committee in charge will have a meeting on Friday evening in the school following the Mother of Sorrows novena. The October committee has already been announced and they should be contacted by anyone wishing to assist in conducting the affair. Pizza will be sold as a special feature of the meeting.

The next bake sale has been scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 13 following each mass in the school. Women whose last names begin with the letters N to Z will do the baking.

The Hungarian women of the parish will join with the guild members in serving a chicken and dumpling dinner on Sunday, Nov. 3, in the school from 1 p.m. until 7 p.m. Take out dinners will be served from 10 a.m. to noon. A meeting of the women who will take part in serving the meal will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in the school. This will be open to the general public.

Catholic Daughters In Sunday Program

Members of the Catholic Daughters of America Belle Vernon Court 1522 have been invited to join with Court Charleroi 669 for a Day of Recollection next Sunday. It will honor the queen of the holy rosary and will be held in St. Jerome Church of Charleroi.

The program will begin at 2 p.m. Dinner will be served at 5:30 p.m. and the services will conclude with a holy hour at 7 p.m.

Reservations must be made no later than today with the Grand Regent of the local court, Mrs. Maude McCauley.

Congress Plans New Housing Investigation

WASHINGTON (UP) — Congress today planned a new housing investigation that may lead to legislative proposals to prohibit second mortgages.

Rep. Albert D. Rains (D-Ala.), chairman of the House Banking Subcommittee on housing, said his group will open the inquiry in Miami Oct. 8 and 9. The subcommittee plans further hearings in Washington in December.

In announcing the hearings last night, Rains charged that the administration's tight money policy is creating a hardship on both home - buyers and fast growing communities.

He said "tight money" is forcing home - buyers into "costly and dangerous second mortgage financing schemes" and is also "making it difficult" for cities to finance construction of new sewer, water and other facilities needed by new communities.

The congressman said the investigation may result in legislative proposals for eliminating second mortgages.

Bocci League Banquet Held Here; Awards Are Presented

The fourth annual banquet for members of Belle Vernon American Legion Post 659 Bocci League was held on Sunday evening in the Post Home, and was highlighted by the presentation of awards to the winning teams.

Sam Stringhill, chairman of the canteen committee, extended the welcome, and before the serving of a steak dinner the Rev. Robert Feeney, assistant at St. Sebastian Roman Catholic Church, asked the invocation.

Introduced as guest speakers were Baptiste Manzini, football coach at Bellmar High School, and James Weir, athletic director at Rostraver High School. Both discussed phases of sports and the benefits derived from participation.

Among the guests introduced were Belle Vernon Burgess William Venneri, who spoke briefly; North Belle Vernon Police Chief M. E. Anthony, who represented Burgess Leroy Jones; Sgt. William Munz of the state police, who was formerly stationed at Belle Vernon; Frank Camino and William Rowley, who were special guests. Rowley is a North Belle Vernon councilman.

The awards were made to the Barflies captained by Felix Ricci and the Bums captained by Dominick Sack. Both captains spoke briefly after accepting trophies presented by Manzini and Weir.

After the formal program the men were shown moving pictures of the Pitt-Georgia Tech Gator Bowl game, and a social evening followed.

The dinner was prepared by Mrs. Cleo Valdiserri, wife of the club steward, assisted by several friends.

Benediction was by the Rev. James Percy, pastor of the Lynnwood Church.

Methodist Church Groups in Rally

A large group of young people representing the Youth Fellowship groups of the Methodist churches of the Monessen Sub-District met at the First Methodist Church of Belle Vernon on Sunday evening for a rally.

Registration was conducted at 5 o'clock. The program then consisted of a business session, recreation period and a worship program.

Young people of the host church and the local pastor, the Rev. W. H. Schatz, took part in the devotionals. Guest speaker was the Rev. James C. Ridgway of Perryopolis, who discussed youth work.

Board to Meet

Belle Vernon Board of Education will meet in regular session on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the library of Vernon Junior High School.

A meeting of the Washington Township Lions Club will be held on Wednesday evening in the social rooms of the Marion Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. George Wenick and children of Delmont St. accompanied by her mother spent the week end visiting relatives in Arlington, Va.

The Degree of Honor Protective Association will meet on Friday evening in the lodge rooms on State St.

A meeting of the Women's Benefit Association will be held on Friday evening in the Sons of Italy Hall.

Marion Canteen Dance on Friday

The regular Friday evening canteen dance will be held at Marion Junior High School on Friday evening in the school gymnasium. Dancing will be to recorded music, and will for junior high students from seventh, eighth and ninth grades this week.

The Washington Township Parent Teacher Association sponsors the weekly dances for the young folks. Last week there was no Friday dance, since the activity was advanced until Tuesday evening and a Barry Kay Dance was held.

Lions Club Meets In Advanced Session

The Belle Vernon Lions Club will meet this evening in the First Christian Church. The session was advanced from next Tuesday evening, Oct. 8, which is the regular meeting night.

Oct. 8 is the date selected for the first band festival to be sponsored by the club at Bellmar Stadium. The Pitt Marching Band will be featured along with several district High School bands in an evening of marching music and specialties. This will be open to the general public.

Bill Leithold of Henry St., is vacationing on the west coast. He made the trip west by plane in company with a large party of Pittsburgh people. Florida Rains Cause Damage By Flooding

By UNITED PRESS

Thundershowers today fed the rain-swollen waters of Lake Talquin, near Tallahassee, Fla., which already have washed away a dam and threatened to flood Gulf Coast fishing villages.

While torrential rains caused numerous lakes and ponds in the Tallahassee area to swell over their banks, the U. S. Weather Bureau promised no relief for the region which has just finished its wettest September in 30 years.

At some points, eight inches of rain fell Monday, while at Panacea, near the Gulf Coast, well over a foot has fallen since the week end began.

Cloudy skies and general rains today were forecast for the southeast portion of the country from Virginia through Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

During the night, temperatures across the country were mostly in the 50s and 60s.

Light showers will precede a movement of cool air into the eastern Great Lakes today. Except for cloudiness and rain in the Northwest and Southeast, skies across the country will be fair.

Brownie Troop Girls Presented 'Fly-up' Pins

Several of the girls who have been active in Belle Vernon Brownie Troop 25 have been presented with pins as "fly-ups" and will now become intermediate Girl Scouts.

The girls took part in special ceremonies when Troop 25 met in regular session on Saturday afternoon with leader, Mrs. Sue Ringstad, in charge.

Those receiving pins were Darlene Brewer, Mary Burkhart, Marie Checchi, Mary Eileen Dunn, Karen Evans, Cheryl Ferguson, Penny Hewitt, Ginger Houseman, Mary Ann Husovitz, Joyce McGavitt, Linda Ringstad, Sara Trozzo, Sheryl Valdiserri and Linda Wagner.

These girls will form a new troop and will be assigned a number and a weekly meeting time in the Girl Scout Little House on Speer St. Mrs. Freeda Martin will be the troop leader.

Mrs. Ringstad will continue as leader of Troop 25, which will meet each Saturday afternoon from 2 until 4 p. m. Three Brownies still remain in her troop. They are Cristy Ringstad, Melanie Jones and Neila Neil.

New girls will register for troop membership on Saturday at the regular meeting. They are Joyce McClain, Santa Alessio, Barbara Sterner, Pauline Anderchek, Patricia Anderchek, Mavis Syzmansky, and Mary Kay Fuoco.

This registration is only for residents of North Belle Vernon, Westmoreland County, however all those eligible should sign up.

King Haakon Services Held In Norway Today

OSLO, Norway (UP)—A sorrowing Norway buried its beloved King Haakon VII today.

Four kings and a reigning queen joined with Norwegians from all walks of life to pay final homage to the monarch who ruled Norway with benevolent hands for more than 50 years.

The solemn state funeral services were held in the cathedral in Oslo. From the cathedral, the coffin was taken to historic Akershus Castle, 25 miles away, where it is to be placed in the crypt besides that of Haakon's wife, Queen Maud who died in 1938.

Those present included King Baudouin of Belgium, King Frederick IX of Denmark, King Gustaf Adolf VI of Sweden and King Paul of Greece, Queen Juliana of Holland and the Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg.

Billy Graham's Visit Delayed To Little Rock

TRENTON, N J. (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said Monday night that a group that invited him to Little Rock, Ark., had asked him to delay his visit to the city until "the heated tension is past."

The telegram was signed by Frank Lyon, chairman of the Little Rock invitation committee, and nine other persons.

It said: "We appreciate your concern for Little Rock people in this crisis and your offer to come to our assistance. After prayerful consideration it is our conviction that you could be of more help to us when the heated tension is past."

Since Graham began a series of evangelistic rallies in New York's suburbs a week ago, he has repeatedly defended the "vast majority of the people of Little Rock, who are law-abiding and abhor violence."

Graham told 6 000 persons in the Trenton armory that "people of all colors would fall in love with each other, if they loved God."

An estimated 300 persons recorded "decisions for Christ" at the close of Graham's sermon

Relief Is Ended

VIENNA (UP) — The International Red Cross said today it has ended its relief actions for Hungarian refugees in Austria.

FAYETTE CITY BURGESS IN FRANCE — That's Fayette City Burgess Howard Opfar in the center of a group of foreign dignitaries shortly after he placed a wreath on the tomb of France's unknown soldier recently. Opfar was in France as the guest of the French government to help observe the 200th birthday anniversary of Lafayette He was included in a group of American mayors and burgesses, who represented U. S. communities named after the famed French hero. Opfar was picked to place the wreath because he was a wounded veteran of the World War I fighting in France.

Fayette City Burgess Glad to Be Back with 'Common Man'

Fayette City Burgess Howard Opfar said today that he found his second trip to France "every bit as exciting as the first but for different reasons."

Opfar and wife returned home by boat last week after a two-week "royal visit" financed by the French government as part of Lafayette's 200th birthday observance.

Opfar also took a "free" trip to France in 1917. At that time he was a member of 111th Regiment of the 28th Infantry Division and he participated in heavy World War I fighting in the Argonne Forest.

Opfar was wounded on that famous French battlefield. "I never thought I'd go back to France as I lay on an Army cot in the field hospital almost 30 years ago," Opfar recalled. "But I did and I'm grateful for the opportunity."

Opfar was one of 23 American mayors and burgesses who travelled to France to represent U. S. communities named after Lafayette. Ten wives also made the trip.

'Treated Royally'

"We were treated royally," Opfar said. "From the moment we stepped off the plane to the time we boarded a boat for home, the French government paid all of my bills."

Opfar said his only expense was plane and boat fare for his wife.

"Everything was so spectacular, I can't pick out a single high spot in the trip," continued the burgess. "We attended one state dinner after another, but we still found some time to see the sights."

Opfar said he had little opportunity to discuss things with the "common man" in France.

"Mrs. Opfar and I had practically no time to talk to people like ourselves," he chuckled. "We were living with the 'upper crust.' "

Opfar made it a point to visit the famous battlefield where he suffered his wound in World War I. He also visited in Vichy and Bordeaux as well as Paris.

Opfar had the honor of placing a wreath on the tomb of France's unknown soldier. Later he had a conference with Rene Coty, French president. Together they talked over World War I episodes

"It was an experience I'll never forget," said the burgess. "But it's also good to be back home again and return to my life as a 'common man.' "

Most Important Man in Wisconsin

PORT WASHINGTON, Wis (UP)—There's no doubt about who the most important men in Port Washington are.

The city got its first vial of flu vaccine, and it went to four garbage collectors, two waterworks employes and a key man at the sewage disposal plant. The mayor, aldermen and other city workers are in line for the next batch of vaccine.

Guild in Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Guild and Christian Mothers will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the social rooms of St. Edward's Catholic Church. There will be a business meeting and social hour.

Legion in Meeting

The Brightwell-Daugherty Post of the American Legion will hold its regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Legion Home, Main St., Fayette City. All Legionaires are invited to attend.

Lions Club Will Meet Thursday

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Fayette City Lions Club will be held on Thursday evening at 6:30 in the Methodist Church.

Dinner served by the Woman's Society for Christian Service will be followed by a fine program arranged by the chairman, Richard Richardson, and a business session conducted by the president, Robert Premoshis.

The club is still striving to secure new members and to promote an active program for civic interest this fall and winter.

John Alden was the last survivor of the original "Mayflower pilgrims.

Worry of
FALSE TEETH
Slipping or Irritating?
Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Stephanie Beck, who died nine years ago today, October 1, 1948.
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in his wisdom has recalled,
The boon His love had given,
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in Heaven
Sadly missed by Husband, Son, Daughter, Son-in-law and Granddaughter.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Charles Sutovich, who died 19 years ago today, October 1, 1938.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
And still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of the one who once sat there.
It is lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away
Sadly missed by Mother, Brothers and Sisters.

Story of Elizabeth and Philip Begins with Marriage Ceremony

(Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip visit the United States this month. This is the second of five dispatches about the man in the royal family.)

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UP) — Unlike most fairy tale romances, the story of Elizabeth and Philip really begins with their marriage ceremony of crimson and gold as the young couple knelt on the spot where British kings had been crowned for 800 years.

As they left the great abbey, Prince Philip could have, in the ordinary course of events, been sure of some 20 years of his beloved sailoring and family life mixed with a certain amount of public duties.

The sudden death of George VI five years later changed that irrevocably. The princess he took to Kenya in Feb. 1952, at the start of a commonwealth tour, returned to a mourning Britain as Queen.

Even as the body of the King lay in state in Westminster Hall, Philip knew that his carefree life at sea was over. Although he resisted it as long as he could, he eventually accepted the inevitable.

And among the first things he did was to toss down the gauntlet of battle to the defenders of the barnacle encrusted traditions of running royal households. This is a war of many and continuing skirmishes. The old guard dies, but it never surrenders.

Breaks Up Racket

Philip broke up the free meal racket. He discovered that all sorts of people had the right to eat in the royal palaces on the Queen's bounty. There were five dining rooms going in Buckingham Palace alone. Top servants had lesser servants to wait on them and lesser servants had minor servants.

Buckingham Palace has hundreds of rooms, miles of corridors. Messages used to be taken around by hand. Philip put in an intercom among other such outlandish innovations as effective central hearing. European princes, who used to dread invitations to the frost manse, were agreeably surprised to find it moderately comfortable.

Philip spared few in his determination to set the royal household on a businesslike basis He mechanized the 20,000 acre royal farm at Sandringham so it could sell its produce. He ordered Balmoral to peddle all surplus game after shooting parties. He directed Windsor Castle to send its flowers and fruit to Convent Garden.

He damaged one juicy little racket to the chagrin of many blue-blooded dowagers. Some of these ladies used to charge as much as 1,000 pounds ($2,800) to arrange presentation at court. The brief introduction and curtsy to the Queen was once the ultimate in lanching a debutante. It means much less now

In all this Philip had two main objects. He has a naturally tidy mind as a man whose naval commands were notably shipshape. And he wanted to forestall any criticism of the way the Crown manages its affairs. Lord Altrincham's recent attack on the Queen's advisers pulled the stopper on a small flood of antagonism to certain aspects of royal life which aways simmers just beneath the polite surface of Britain.

Aim At Philip

There are a number of snipers at the Crown but most of these, not daring to attack the sovereign directly, aim their shafts at those closer to her. Philip's nimble footwork and anticipation have kept criticisms against him to a minimum, even though, as foreign-born, he is so vulnerable.

Socialist newspapers called him a "royal meddler" when he spoke in favor of conscription. A church magazine expressed "pained regret" that he plays polo on Sunday. A columnist claimed that the royal yacht, Brittania, was built at a cost of six million dollars to please Philip. Another promptly pointed out it was planned even before Philip became engaged.

Another paper griped about the new $112,000 royal railroad dining car, although it replaces one 50 years old. Another writer pointed out that Philip, who was once "impoverished," now has all the playthings of the rich-yachts, polo ponies, fast cars, airplanes.

The Daily Mail, for the defense, commented that "Philip by his individual mixture of charm, tact, discretion, dignity and informality, is succeeding in a situation which demands all these abilities to the full."

(Next: Philip is far more concerned about attacks on the Queen.)

Rheumatic Fever Can Be Licked

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EARLY reports seem to indicate that we can lick rheumatic fever, but we need the help of you parents.

Simply by administering penicillin promptly when a youngster comes down with a streptococcus throat infection, we can usually stave off development of the often fatal disease.

We've known for a long time that rheumatic fever usually follows an attack of beta hemolytic strep, or strep throat. But diagnosing such a case in time isn't always so easy.

Parents just don't seem to recognnize such a c asien donald nosdonald donal draod road roa ognize the seriuos possibilities accompanying a sore throat. And they don't call a doctor promptly

It's highly important, therefore, that you be able to recognize the symptoms of strep throat.

Usual Symptoms

Usually it is a sore throat which comes on suddenly. Swallowing probably will be painful and if you press at the angle of the jaw it is likely to hurt.

The victim is apt to have a headache, suffer nausea and vomit. And there probably will be a fever ranging from 101 to 104 degrees.

Be especially alert for any of these symptoms if your child has come in contact with another with a strep throat.

It is essential to spot a strep throat as quickly as possible. If it is let go too long, even penicillin can't do much to prevent rheumatic fever from developing.

There is only one sure way of diagnosing a strep infection, even with one or all of the above symptoms present. And that is to take a nose or throat culture and have it examined in the laboratory.

If the lab tests prove positive, the physician will administer penicillin right away. Then, in about six to eight weeks, you'll know whether the antibiotic has done its job.

If rheumatic fever symptoms don't develop by this time, it's a good bet the child is safe.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

A. C.: What causes stomach ulcers?

Answer: There is no definite proof as to what causes stomach ulcers.

Skunk Shoots Cop, Cop Shoots Skunk

STONEHAM, Mass. (UP)—Patrolmen Richard Burns and Edward Pinato were called to assist a skunk that had caught its head in a bottle.

Pinato drew his revolver—Burns waved him back and strode forward to help the trapped animal.

The following entry was made in the police journal by officer Pinato—"shot skunk after skunk shot officer Burns."

District Car Owners Can Get Facts on TV

Thousands of car owners in the Pittsburgh area now have a weekly television series designed especially to interest them.

This series, which got underway last Friday at 7:30 p. m., is being telecast over Channel 13 in cooperation with the Pittsburgh section of the Society of Automotive Engineers. The various half-hour Friday programs, entitled "Your Car," will consider the many phases of the operation of the automobile and will be presented in a non-technical conversational way.

Discussions — similar to a conversation between an automotive engineer and an intelligent friend who owns a car — will touch upon such topics as "engines," "fuels," "tires," "appearance," and "maintenance." Hosting the 13-week series will be R.J.S. Pigott, former president of the 21,000-member national S. A. E., and who now is a consulting engineer.

Each Friday evening, he will introduce the speaker and the subject, and will conclude the telecasts with a short resume plus a mention of the following week's program.

The second show, on the "Electrical System," is to be handled by the service department of the Ford Motor Co. under the direction of C. K. Brown.

This show will study the fundamental importance of the ignition system and its parts to the proper operation of the automobile. The General Motors Training Center, under the supervision of W. T. Agee, will take over the third show which centers on a discussion of "brakes."

A general review of the history, the importance, and the proper care and maintenance of the braking system will be featured.

Children Have Problem with TV and Radio

CHICAGO — (UP) — Television and radio sets are responsible for much of the friction between children and their parents, according to results of a survey among 125 elementary school pupils ranging in age from 9 to 12.

Well over 90 per cent of the grievances centered around radio or TV sets, according to Florence A. Gritzner, supervising principal of Lincoln School at Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Miss Gritzner initiated the survey and reported her findings in National Parent-Teacher, official publication of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"It was amazing to note how many parents insisted on having a child eat or run errands during his favorite program," she said.

"Being kept too young" also brought a flood of complaints against parents.

"They are older and don't understand children although they were one at one time," one youngster wrote.

Another child had no difficulty in tracing his trouble.

"My parents annoy me before I get a spanking," he reported.

Revised Estimate

FORT DODGE, Iowa (UP) — Dermot Patrick Moran, charged with drunken begging, offered to get out of town in 25 minutes. Then, after the judge pointed out Moran had been arrested for begging at the home of the police matron, the accused man offered to leave town in 20 minutes. The judge took him up on it.

World of TV—

Live TV Drama Has Hit Skids

NEW YORK (UP)—Live TV drama has hit the skids and some of TV's top directors are hitting the road—to Broadway.

The Kaiser Hour has been dispatched to the graveyard and so has the Robert Montgomery Show. Lux Video is gone, along with the Alcoa - Goodyear hour. Studio One is reported to be in trouble.

As a result, directors who made their reputations in TV are going legit. The Broadway schedule this season lists such TV directors as Bob Mulligan for "The Indian Fighters," Alex Segal for "Compulsion," Arthur Penn for "Two for the See-saw," Vincent Donahue for "Sunrise at Campobello" and Sidney Lumet for "The Minotaur."

George Roy Hill, who goes into rehearsal Oct. 14 for Broadway's "Look Homeward Angel," is another TV director who has made the shift. It was Hill who turned out "A Night to Remember" on Kraft and who later became a member of the Kaiser drama unit on NBC-TV.

"There's no doubt that live TV drama is in a pretty bad way right now," said Hill. "Why? Well, I guess it's because sponsors feel they have more control over filmed shows than live ones. They're more interested in selling soap than in turning out good drama. And of course you can't blame them. That's why they're in television."

Hill, 34, a former Marine pilot, hasn't deserted TV. He'll direct a couple of "Playhouse 90" dramas after his Broadway assignment. But he feels that the legitimate theatre does offer a welcome change of pace after TV.

"Broadway is the only medium that gives you artistic freedom," he said. "By the very nature of their set-ups, TV and the movies have to worry about pressure groups. You put a show on TV and 20 million people will see it and the sponsor has to worry about the reaction of all of them.

"But the Broadway audience is smaller and you don't have to worry about pressure from your audience. Or censorship. You can deal with adult themes like sex. You can do plays of social significance —something you can't do on TV."

Feels TV Improving

Hill, contrary to many other observers, feels TV is improving. "It's kind of fashionable to say TV is going to pot, but it isn't so. I think on the average the drama on TV now — particularly "Playhouse 90"—is better than the TV drama of three or four years ago. I think some of the scripts that used to be done on TV wouldn't be good enough any more.

"But you need sponsors with courage, sponsors who are willing to give their staffs a little freedom —like Kraft. You take that Kaiser show. They wouldn't let us touch anything even vaguely controversial. All they wanted were plays that glorified American motherhood. We all gave it up as a bad job.

"But I'm not disillusioned about television. I think big live drama is going to make a comeback in one or two years. And I think some smart sponsor is even going to find that a good live drama show will sell soap."

The children of French, German and British parents who emigrated to the United States grow to be slightly taller than their parents.

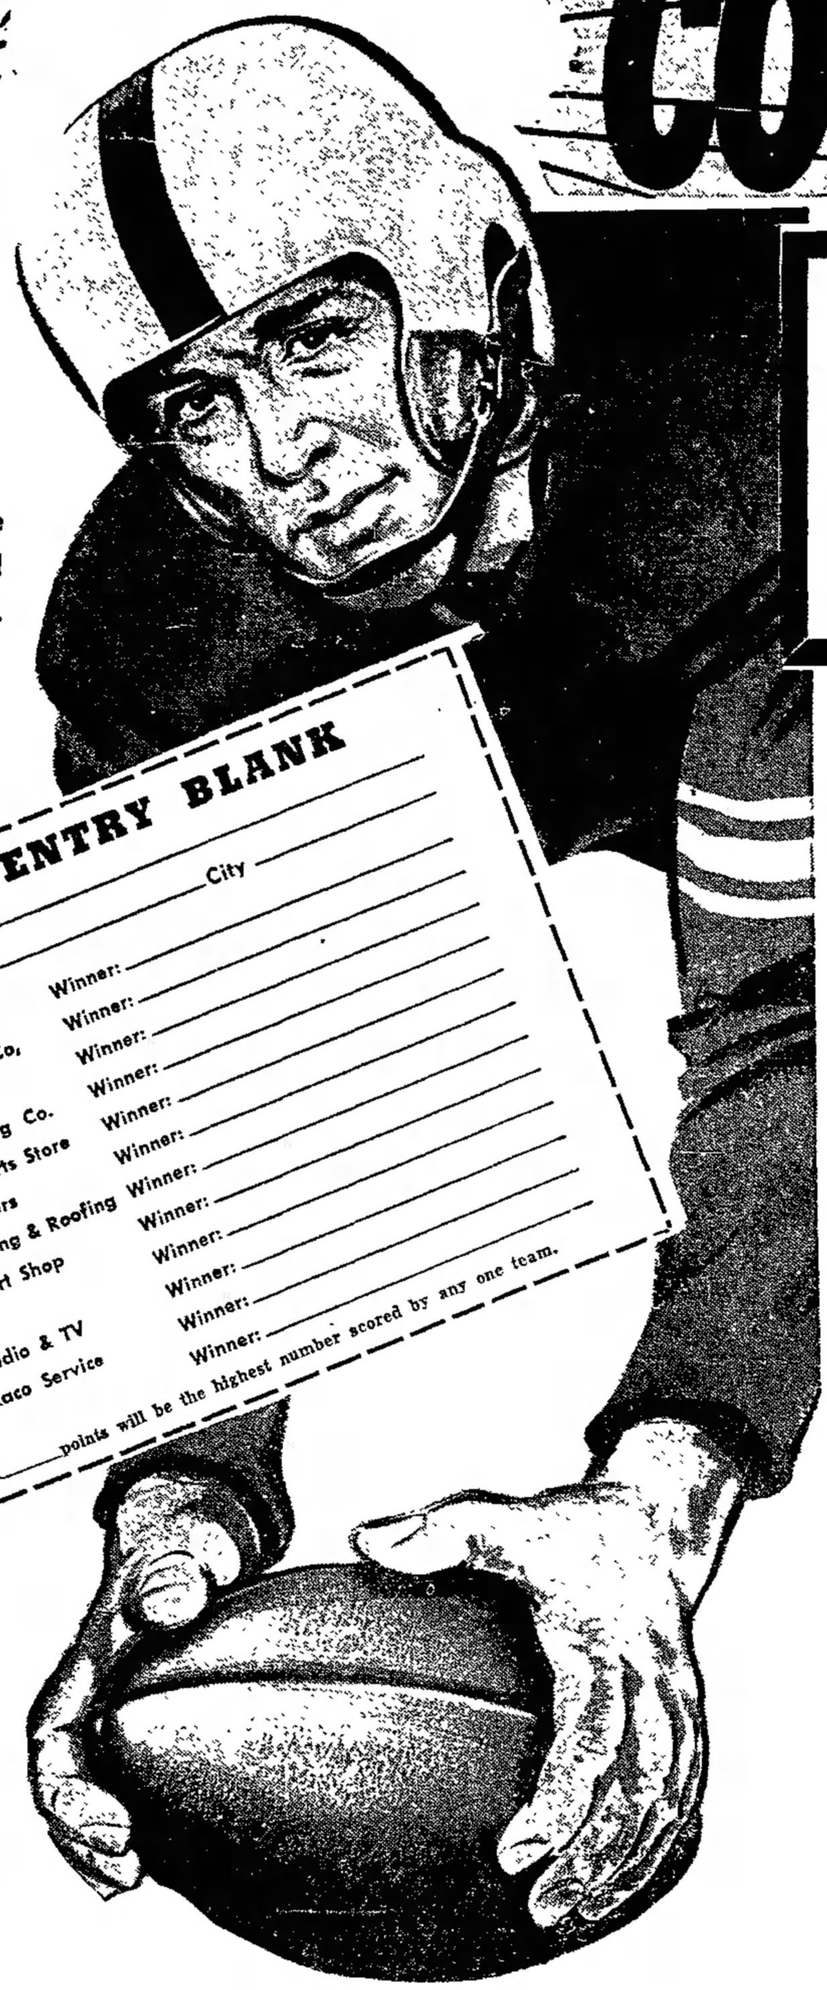
$ $ $ WIN CASH PRIZES WEEKLY! $

FOOTBALL CONTEST

Test your skill by matching your predictions with the football experts weekly

FREE CASH PRIZES will be awarded each week (in accordance with Contest Rules at right) as follows: 1st PRIZE: $15; 2nd PRIZE: $7.50; 3rd PRIZE: $5. Nothing to Buy. Nothing to Pay. No Obligation.



CONTEST RULES

- 12 football games this weekend are placed, one in each ad on this page. Indicate winnner by writing in the name of team opposite the advertiser's name in the Entry Blank. No scores. Just pick winners.
- Pick a number which you think will be the highest number of points scored by any one team on this page and place this number in the space provided in Entry Blank. This will be used to break ties.

All entries must be brought to the participating merchants, the office of The Daily Independent, or be postmarked no later than Friday noon.
